

Vanscourt, Estate Thief, Out of Prison

By BILL HOMER
Staff Writer

Louis T. Vanscourt, former Orange County public administrator who in 1966 fled to Hawaii with a blond divorcee and subsequently was convicted of embezzling from the estates of dead persons, was released from prison Friday after serving three years of a one-to-10 year sentence.

Vanscourt, whose wife, Faye, and two children live in Garden Grove, remains on probation, an official of the Southern Conservation Center at Chino told The Independent, Press-Telegram.

The suave, silver-haired Vanscourt, who began his ocean-hopping idyll with buxom, 5-foot-2 Judy Hall on Oct. 30, 1966, started serving his sentence at the minimum security prison May 22, 1967.

Vanscourt, 49, was a model prisoner now "ready" to make a new, constructive start in life," said James Speer, administrative assistant to the conservation center's superintendent.

San Diego Superior Court Judge Eli H. Levenson sentenced Vanscourt on two counts of a 12-count Orange

Set Spinner

Q. I have been looking, without success, for a swivel wall bracket for my television set similar to the type that are in motel rooms. Can ACTION LINE help? J.R., Seal Beach.

A. The Zenith Co. manufactures a swivel wall bracket that will fit 18 and 20 inch color sets and 22 inch black and white sets. You can order one for $19.95 from Pete & Fred's Electronics Inc., 3808 Atlantic Ave. or from most television dealers who carry Zenith products.

For Cat's Sake!

Q. My yard has been invaded by six or eight cats, all of which belong to neighbors. I have no wish to offend cat lovers, but the cats are a problem, especially at 2 in the morning. Can you suggest any possible avenue of approach to the problem? Mrs. J.M., Lakewood.

A. Partying pussies who like to spend the night on the town are not likely to hang around a place that offers more fright than fun, says a local veterinarian, so the best thing is to try to scare them away. You might wave things at the cats, make loud noises, turn a hose on them, or borrow a dog to patrol. Upset by your lack of hospitality, the cats should avoid you, for a time, at least. Pet shops sell repellent sprays that are effective in keeping animals away from one specific area, but these are generally not practical for protecting the whole yard.

Q. To settle an estate, I need to get a certified death certificate for my aunt who died two years ago in Harbor General Hospital. Can ACTION LINE tell me how I can obtain one? J.A.W., Downey.

A. You can obtain a certified copy of the death certificate by sending $2 to the Los Angeles County Recorder's Office, 227 N. Broadway, Room 10, Los Angeles, Calif. 90012. Your request must include the name of the deceased and the date of death.

MOTHERS FIGHT TO GET AT AMBUSHED CHILDREN

'It Was a Scene Straight Out of Hell'

RELATED STORY, PAGE A-3
By PETER D. LYNCH

SAFAD, Israel (UPI) — It was like a scene straight out of hell.

Outside the Cottage Hospital in this Israeli hilltop town, hysterical mothers tore the skin from their cheeks with their fingernails and fought police in an effort to force their way inside.

Behind the police and the hospital doors were 20 schoolchildren and a teacher, wounded by the shrapnel of bazooka shells fired at their school bus by Arab guerrillas on a road alongside the Lebanese frontier. At least two of them were fighting for their lives.

Eleven others, eight of them children, had already been buried before

Laird Says Ally
Not Bound by U.S.
Cambodia Pullout

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Friday that South Vietnamese troops should be free to operate in Cambodia after U.S. forces leave by June 30.

Laird said "I think it would be a mistake . . . to make a firm timetable" for South Vietnamese withdrawal from Cambodia.

To do so, he said, would destroy military advantage stemming from the clean-out of enemy bases in Cambodia.

LAIRD SAID he believes any arrangements for continued South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia should be worked out between the Saigon and Cambodian governments and that the United States should not become involved "in any direct way."

Laird's position, spelled out in an interview on the NBC Today show, appeared to conflict with statements by White House officials who have indicated they expect the South Vietnamese forces to withdraw when American troops pull out.

Top-level Pentagon officials said the question has not yet been finally resolved.

Later, at a Pentagon briefing, a spokesman said all U.S. tactical air support for the South Vietnamese will end when American forces leave Cambodia.

However, the spokesman said the question of U.S. strategic air support for future South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia will be decided at the time.

REDS BEWAIL U.S. 'TRICK' IN CAMBODIA

SAIGON, Saturday (UPI) — The Viet Cong described as a trick today President Nixon's announcements that U.S. forces will leave Cambodia by June 30 and penetrate no farther than 21.7 miles inside the country.

"On the one hand, Nixon declares that American troops will only penetrate 21.7 miles inside Cambodia and that they will withdraw by June 30," said a Viet Cong liberation broadcast.

"But on the other hand Nixon allows the Thieu regime (of South Vietnam) to send troops into Cambodia, and this puppet South Vietnamese regime declares that it is not bound by the 21.7-mile limit and that South Vietnamese troops will withdraw only when they have accomplished their tasks in Cambodia."

What Muzzle? Agnew Blasts Press, Rioters

40 Arrested in New Fresno State Unrest

By LLOYD CARTER

FRESNO (UPI) — Riot-equipped police swept through a crowd of angry students blocking traffic on a busy highway near Fresno State College Friday and arrested about 40 of the demonstrators.

The students sat three deep across the six-lane highway and piled garbage, a steel bed frame and other debris on the roadway, blocking traffic for nearly three hours.

Police were pelted with rocks and bottles as they made periodic sweeps through the crowd in an attempt to break up a day-long demonstration at the troubled campus.

After the police swept through the crowd and opened the highway, a group of 20 construction workers moved onto the traffic divider and taunted the demonstrators.

No major injuries were reported.

THOSE ARRESTED were part of a group of 300 demonstrators who surged in and out of campus buildings all morning in a futile attempt to shut down the violence-plagued campus.

The students fanned out on Shaw Avenue three times, bringing traffic on the six-lane roadway to a halt for several minutes each time.

Two pickup trucks attempted to run through the line of students sitting three-deep across the highway, but the demonstrators moved out of the way and no one was injured.

Helmeted officers poured out of two buses and ran at the students in an attempt to disperse them. A number of students, male and female, were hauled off to nearby paddy wagons.

The rest of the crowd stood on a corner and jeered.

The students attempted to disrupt classes in protest of a recommendation by the college administration to dismiss eight of 12 teachers in the school's ethnic studies program.

TORRANCE POLICEMAN HELD AS SUSPECT IN BURGLARY

Booked with Parker was Charles James Allen, 36.

Investigators said a joint investigation into the case is being conducted by the detective division and the internal affairs division of the Torrance Police Department.

BULLETIN

A bomb threat forced an American Airlines jet that had just left for Dallas Friday night to return for evacuation of 93 passengers at Los Angeles International Airport. The passengers slid down the 737's emergency chute on Runway 25 in about 30 seconds, fire officials reported.

Compares College Mobs to Enemy

New York Times Service

HOUSTON — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew Friday night compared campus rioters to enemy soldiers, demanded the expulsion from college of trouble-making faculty and students, and rejected as "nonsense" statements by newspaper editors and columnists that the President and the vice president had contributed to recent campus disorders with their comments.

Agnew, saying President Nixon in no way muzzled him and refusing to "cool it" in his speeches, launched a new attack on the "liberal news media of this country."

"I have refused to 'cool it' to use the vernacular, until those self-righteous lower their voices a few decibels," Agnew said. "This, I am sure, they are unwilling to do, and there is too much at stake in the nation for us to leave the entire field of public commentary to them."

In remarks at a $500-a-plate Republican dinner at Houston's Shamrock Hilton Hotel, where dozens of protesters had gathered to jeer him, the vice president said that much of the fanning of the "frenzy" that followed President Nixon's order to move troops into Cambodia was done by Eastern editorialists and columnists.

He said that among those he blamed were James Reston, Tom Wicker and Anthony Lewis of the New York Times, I.F. Stone, publisher of a weekly Washington newsletter, and Hugh Sidey of Life Magazine.

GOODWIN KNIGHT
Affable 31st Governor

Knight Mourned by State

SACRAMENTO (AP) — With flags across the state at halfstaff Friday, friends and enemies made in a life of rough-and-tumble politics praised former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, dead of pneumonia at age 73.

Knight died Friday morning at Daniel Freeman Hospital in Inglewood. He entered the hospital Tuesday suffering from a fever.

A bluff, robust, outgoing Republican, Knight served as governor from 1953 to 1959.

President Nixon, who sometimes found himself involved in bitter intraparty disputes with Knight in the late 1950s, issued the following statement:

"GOODWIN Knight's distinguished contributions to good government in California and his devoted service to its people will long serve as a fitting memorial to him.

"I knew him well and admired him not only for his great abilities in politics and government and for his remarkable zest

Death Sentence for Child Slayer Mack Edwards

Associated Press

Mack Ray Edwards got what he wanted Friday: a decree of death.

The 51-year-old construction worker twice has tried suicide in his cell since admitting killing six youngsters since 1953.

He pleaded guilty to murdering three.

The death penalty was pronounced by a Los Angeles Superior Court jury which deliberated four hours after hearing a prosecutor say: "If ever there was a case that cried out for the imposition of the death penalty, this is the case. This defendant has forfeited whatever right a person has to live in this society."

EARLIER, a detective had related to the six men and six women details of Edwards' account of the slayings.

Police are investigating to see if Edwards may have killed other children, perhaps as many as 22. Edwards himself told an interviewer: "Six is all there is."

Edwards, after his attorney asked the jury for life imprisonment, said he wanted to die:

"My attorney got a bit mixed up and pleaded for my life. That's not what I want. I want the chair; that's what I've always wanted."

If the sentence is carried out, he will die in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber.

Edwards, who lived with his wife and teen-age son and daughter in suburban Sylmar, walked into a police precinct March 6 and said he'd kidnaped three girls, taking them into the hills, but one got away. Officers said he surrendered because he figured the girl would lead police to him.

BE WARNED L.A. Faces an Invasion by Fleas

Los Angeles residents were warned Friday that they may be faced with a flea invasion this summer.

Dr. Gerald A. Heidbreder, county health officer, said higher temperatures speed up the flea's life cycle with the result that more of them find their way into homes and yards.

While dogs and cats are the usual targets, people can be victims too, the health officer said.

HE SAID when itching occurs about the feet and ankles, flea bites may easily be the source.

"Application of ice, or the use of soothing medications, will temporarily alleviate the discomfort," Dr. Heidbreder noted.

He said that if a home is infested, it should be vacuumed thoroughly.

Yards may be sprayed with products using the word "fleas" on the label.

It's Beach, Backyard Weather

Southlanders will find the weather fine for outdoor activities at the beaches, mountains or their own backyards this weekend, the Los Angeles Weather Bureau says.

Except for early morning and late night low clouds, weather will be sunny and warm, with high temperatures in the high 70's and lows in the low 60s in the Long Beach area.

It will be about 10 degrees hotter in inland valleys, but temperatures at most mountain resorts should be in the balmy mid-70s, the weather bureau says.

McCarthy Flies to L.A. to Aid Brown Drive

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., arrived Friday in Los Angeles to campaign for Rep. George Brown, candidate for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate.

McCarthy said he supported Brown because the congressman was one of his supporters when he ran for President in 1968.

"Loyalty is not the only thing, however," McCarthy said. "The real reason I am campaigning for George Brown is that we must strengthen the Senate. The critical issue is what we will do in the Senate to turn back the expansion of the war in Vietnam."

Brown met McCarthy at International Airport. On their itinerary was a $100-a-plate fund raising dinner at Perino's restaurant and a rally at the Hollywood Paladium later in the evening.

ANGRY GOV. RONALD REAGAN ADDRESSES ANAHEIM AUDIENCE

REAGAN ASKS CRACKDOWN

Administrators Ripped

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

University of California administrators must bring and end to campus turmoil or The Board of Regents "will get people who will," Gov. Reagan told Orange County's Town Hall Forum Friday in Anaheim.

Reagan said the people "won't tolerate" any more radicalism which leads to disruption and violence on campus, and he insisted that this applies to both university and state college campuses.

WHILE REAGAN spoke in the Anaheim Convention Center, young anti-war demonstrators outside distributed peace materials.

Campus dissidents, Reagan said, "have discovered a shining new utopia. In fact, they have found it in a very literal sense — because utopia means nowhere."

Turning his subject to state government and his tax reform proposals, Gov. Reagan predicted that the Senate will approve his $600 million tax revision package without major changes.

Tax reform is necessary, the governor said, because "property owners have had it up to here." He dramatized the point by drawing a finger across his neck.

Reagan said published reports that his plan would shift $70 million in taxes from big business to home owners were incorrect. He suggested that "editorial writers should do their homework" before making such claims.

Reform also must come to the welfare program, he said.

"The state could save $150 million annually," he said, "if the welfare program were overhauled and its benefits tightened to eliminate fraud and waste. This money could be used for education."

HE SAID it would mean that instead of having one of every seven persons on welfare, the burden would shift to one out of 12 receiving public aid.

The governor also called for an exhaustive study of distribution of state money for school aid. He said more efficient distribution methods could result in present monies being adequate to satisfy the state's needs.

Reagan also renewed his opposition to Proposition 8, a constitutional amendment on the June 2 primary ballot. He said that tax increases will be necessary should the measure pass.

SIMON ASKS FACTS ON TECHNICOLOR

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Norton Simon, seeking the Senate seat held by fellow Republican George Murphy, said Friday Murphy has failed to tell the full story about his relationship with Technicolor Corporation.

Simon told newsmen they should find out how Murphy got 8,900 shares of Technicolor stock in 1968 if, as Murphy claimed, he was only a consultant.

The challenger said that under Internal Revenue Service rules such options are available only to employees.

"Did he make twice as much since the beginning of last year from Technicolor than as a senator?" "And," Simon said, "if that is correct, whose employee is he?"

Education, Aid Seen Funding Ecology Needs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Reagan's resources secretary said Friday the public is giving high priority to protecting the environment, and that the money can be found in state education, welfare and health programs.

"The cost involved in educational and research expenses . . . is indeed staggering," Norman B. Livermore Jr. told the Commonwealth Club. "It is hard to believe that some cost effectiveness studies in this field could not be productive of savings, part of which could go toward environmental programs."

Livermore attacked the Commonwealth Club stand against Prop. 7, which raises the ceiling on public bond interest from five to 7 per cent as "misinformed" and said the club had been misled on the issue of the Peripheral Canal.

Thieves Get $115

Burglars forced open a rear door at Wardlow Stationers, 8165 E. Wardlow Road, and took $115 in cash, Long Beach police said Friday.

YOUNGER ASSAILS RADICALS, 'TYRANNY OF THE MINORITY'

District Attorney Evelle J. Younger said Friday the nation is experiencing a tyranny of the minority.

Younger, seeking the Republican nomination for state attorney general, told a group of Los Angeles Rotarians it was time "that we members of the so-called Establishment get rid of our guilt complex and stop apologizing for this country."

He said if the rules under which the majority lived were lifted, the first to suffer would be the "violent radicals" who would, "under a vigilante rule, certainly be eliminated within a matter of hours."

Younger urged citizens to "deny the radicals and the haters the weapon they need to bring America to its knees — surrender by the majority."

The prosecutor compared the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy with "the burning of the ROTC building to try to undermine our nation's war effort or the blocking of a troop train in Oakland for the same purpose."

Younger said each of the acts is one of "direct physical violence" to accomplish a political goal by those who do not have the majority's support.

"The thought of political assassination, I submit, is not so deeply submerged in the minds of the Hoffmans, the Rubins, the Seales and the Dellingers," Younger asserted.

2 Youths Shoot Out

$15,000 in Windows

Two youths armed with pellet rifles shot out $15,000 in auto windows during a two-hour period early Friday, Los Angeles police said.

Witnesses told officers the two did their shooting from a car and while walking through a South Central Los Angeles area.

LONGER

FOR SAILORS

SAN DIEGO — Men at Miramar Naval Air Station were told Friday it's all right to extend sideburns from middear to even with the top of their ear lobes.

The order issued by Capt. Alfred W. Chandler followed a precedent-setting decision last week by the San Diego Naval Reserve Training Center allowing part-time sailors to wear longer hair.

The regular sailors at Miramar still won't be allowed to grow beards. Chandler apparently believes that beards make it uncomfortable to wear oxygen masks, a pilot said, and might even make them leak.

Meanwhile, 15 young Marine Corps reservists assigned one weekend a month to Miramar were preparing for courts martial June 13 and 14 for disobeying orders to trim their hair to Marine regulations.

Tax Reform Hits Kids, Unruh Says

Children came out on the short end of the deal in Gov. Ronald Reagan's $600 million tax revision package, Assemblyman Jess Unruh said Friday.

"The governor had to make a choice between the school children of this state and the oil companies and he clearly chose the oil companies," the Inglewood Democrat said in Los Angeles.

Unruh called passage of the bill, "a great victory for the oil companies. I think the oil companies were principally responsible for passing the bill." He asserted that the legislative halls in Sacramento had been swarming with oil lobbyists pushing for passage of the tax reform package.

Calling the cut in oil-depletion allowances "tokenism," Unruh said Reagan would "have to resort to a tax increase next year no matter what he says."

Unruh also predicted an "outrageous" increase in public utility rates resulting from legislation in Sacramento to tax public utilities such as the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power.

The candidate for the Democratic nomination to oppose Reagan said, "All the governor is really doing is once again helping those big private interests who support him — private companies like Pacific Gas and Electric, which are in competition with our publicly-owned utilities."

KNIGHT

and vitality, but also for his qualities as a man.

Gov. Ronald Reagan said: "As both a lieutenant governor and then governor of California, he served the people long and well, with dedication and integrity."

SAID Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.: "I am deeply grieved by the death of Goodie Knight, a friend of mine and of millions of Californians. A liberal Republican in a great California tradition, he leaves behind a distinguished and enduring record of service."

Assemblyman Jess Unruh, D-Inglewood, engaged in a bitter gubernatorial campaign against Reagan, said: "He was my friend. He was a great friend of public education in this state. He was concerned about people, deeply touched by peoples' personal problems."

Knight administered state affairs smoothly during his six years as governor and became a central figure in a Republican party-splitting fight.

"GOODIE," as friends called him, followed the middle-of-the-road course of his Republican predecessor, Earl Warren.

Warren eulogized him Friday as "a man of great goodwill whose geniality will be missed by all Californians who knew him."

Knight was the only California governor ever to marry in office. In 1954 he took as his bride an attractive war widow, Virginia Carlson, who had written his campaign song, "Our Goodie."

Knight's tenure coincided with the presidency of Dwight D. Eisenhower and was a time of peace and prosperity in California, with no sign of the campus disorders and antiwar protests lurking for his successor, former Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Gov. Reagan.

HIS LAST campaign came in 1956 amid GOP wrangling that split the party and flooded Democrats into statewide control. The wounds went unhealed until Reagan swept the party back eight years later.

Knight stepped up from lieutenant governor to governor with Warren's nomination to the U.S. Supreme Court and won a full term of his own by a half-million vote margin. In 1958, a full 10 months before the primary, he announced he would run for governor again. He didn't.

Knight had jostled with Nixon forces for the right to head the 1956 California delegation to the GOP national convention if President Eisenhower failed to seek reelection. Two years later the Nixon forces, in turn, backed then GOP Sen. William F. Knowland of California for governor, despite Knight's announced re-election plans.

AFTER bitter recriminations, Knight announced he would seek Knowland's Senate seat and Knowland announced he'd go for Knight's governor post. Both lost in a Democratic runaway that put Brown into the governorship.

Knight announced in 1962 he would seek the GOP nomination for governor and Brown, running for re-election, termed it "a transparent attempt to keep Richard Nixon out of the race."

But Knight was sidelined from challenging Nixon in the primary by an attack of hepatitis. The 1962 GOP gubernatorial nominee then became Nixon who had narrowly lost to John F. Kennedy for the presidency two years earlier.

Knight, however, refused to support Nixon's candidacy for governor and when Nixon lost to Brown, pro-Nixon forces put much of the blame on Knight's lack of endorsement.

After he left office, Knight went into show business, with his own local program based on private citizens trying to cope with legal problems. He later became involved in several businesses.

Probe Vowed at Funeral of Jackson State Youth

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The second young black killed in a barrage of police gunfire at Jackson State College a week ago was buried Friday with tributes from some and promises of a full investigation by others.

"No amount of oratory here by me or anyone else will be able to replace the spirit of James Earl Green," said Brenda Rogers, student body president at Jim Hill High where the 17-year-old Green was a student.

"How long, oh Lord, will our white brothers continue to destroy us? It can't go on any longer. It must stop now," Negro civil rights leader Charles Evers said at the funeral service in the black Masonic temple near Jackson State.

"No stone will be left unturned," said Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., who flew to Jackson with a 90-man delegation headed by Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine. Percy said the guilty "will be prosecuted . . . no matter who they are."

Percy said the delegation's presence "symbolizes the fact we care about the students at both Kent State and here."

"The facts ought to be known," Percy said. "That's the way to get rid of violence in this country."

An overflow crowd, including eight senators and 10 congressmen, attended the funeral service. The 3,000 seats in the building were filled and others attending the funeral lined the walls of the big hall and overflowed onto the stairs.

Mourners filed past the open casket for three hours before services started under the direction of Dr. Estus Smith, dean of the School of Liberal Studies at Jackson State.

A TELEGRAM FROM President Nixon was read at the funeral: "I want you to know Mrs. Nixon and I continue to share your sorrow," the President said. The telegram said the shooting "saddens the entire nation."

The delegation from Washington went to the airport after the service. But others drove to the cemetery one mile away in a motorcade.

Police were stationed near the temple and along the motorcade route, and Gov. John Bell Williams said earlier a contingent of highway patrolmen and 1,300 National Guardsmen were available if needed to head off trouble. But there were no incidents.

AGNEW ATTACKS PRESS

south." He said that the Atlanta Constitution had called it "a shame and disgrace" that the vice president had been invited to dedicate a monument on Stone Mountain near Atlanta earlier this month.

AGNEW ALSO singled out for criticism editorials in the New York Times and the New Republic and columns in the New York Post by Pete Hamill and Harriet Van Horne.

He cited the Arkansas Gazette's "position on the extreme left," but said the Gazette's rhetoric had not matched that of the Atlanta Constitution.

Agnew said that the recent campus disorders that followed the invasion of Cambodia had been "shattering" but that these disorders were endorsed by only a "hard core" minority of students and faculty.

"It is my opinion that the hard core of faculty and students should be identified and dismissed from the otherwise healthy body of the college campuses lest they, like a cancer, destroy it," he said.

Daily, said the vice president, he is being told to "cool it" by various columnists and TV and radio commentators.

"I have sworn I will uphold the Constitution against all enemies, foreign and domestic," he said. "Those who would tear our country apart and try to bring down its government are enemies, whether here or abroad, whether destroying libraries and classrooms on a college campus or firing at American troops from a rice paddy in Southeast Asia.

"I HAVE AN obligation to all the people of the United States to call things as I see them, and I have an obligation to the President to support his actions in the best manner I can. I choose my own words and I set the tone of my speeches. As he said at a recent press conference, I am responsible for what I say and I intend to be heard."

Agnew said that some members of the President's official family had joined in urging a softening of his words, but he did not mention any of them by name. He said that senators who had attacked the President's actions were "well intentioned but misguided" and he called them "isolationists."

The vice president said he was sorry he did not have time to describe radio and television advice which he had been getting and which he will continue to ignore.

Agnew's address coincided with speeches in Washington by Mrs. Katharine Graham, publisher of the Washington Post and Newsweek, and former CBS News President Fred

W. Friendly which answered attacks on the press.

Mrs. Graham said the press is under fire from political leaders and the radical left alike and should not waste time "in whining about it."

"The press simply are affected, like everyone else, by the erosion of freedom, the encroachment of government and the confusion of our people," she said.

Friendly, the Ford Foundation's adviser on television, said American journalism is so busy defending its honor against attack that it is allowing its critics to decide what news to cover. He urged the press "to return its full attention to the job of reporting and analyzing the performance on center stage."

he would recommend keeping up air strikes against Communist supplies and bases in Cambodia after the U.S. withdrawal.

Such interdiction bombing, similar to U.S. air strikes at enemy infiltration routes through Laos, are considered of a different character than tactical air cover of ground troops.

Laird's statements seem to put him on the same side with south Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen-Cao Ky, who has said South Vietnamese troops would stay on in Cambodia.

Laird said Friday that the June 30 deadline for withdrawal of all American troops from the Cambodia operation "will be met in every respect."

He made clear that this will include American advisers serving with South Vietnamese forces.

THIS SUGGESTS that for the first time, south Vietnamese ground troops would operate entirely

ISRAELI

There were pieces of bone and pieces of hand and pieces of leg all over the place."

IN TRAGEDIES related to the attack, five parents of the children were injured, three seriously, when a truck rushing them to Safad hospital to see their injured children careened off the road and overturned.

At the scene of the attack, a young army officer's left foot was blown off when he stepped on a mine four hours after the bazooka strike.

The road snakes along the border at the site of the attack. The Arab guerrillas fired from a distance of 20 yards. They could not have missed.

The guerrillas crouched behind a clump of brush just behind a yellow sign on the Israeli side of the frontier that warned in English, Hebrew and Arabic, "Danger. Stop. Frontier ahead."

As the bright green and yellow bus rounded the bend, the guerrillas simultaneously fired three American-manufactured 82-millimeter bazooka shells.

One smashed into the bus directly above the driver's head, killing him instantly. The others hit the bus amidships, sending shrapnel into the schoolchildren and teachers on their way from the settlement of Aviv to the regional school at Dovev.

THE BUS hurtled on for another 60 yards with the dead driver still clutching the wheel, then ran off the road in Israel territory.

"This bus makes the same run every day," the doctor said. "They knew exactly what to wait for."

The doctor reached into the mangled bus, and pulled out the remains of an olive drab bazooka shell.

"This is what did this. And look where it was made, in the United States," he said, pointing to the U.S. marking on the shell.

Sixty yards from where the bus came to a stop, at the actual scene of the attack, broken glass, schoolbooks, pens and clothing littered the road. A child's shoe, still tightly laced, lay in a ditch.

Inside the bus were human remains, blood soaked school satchels, broken pens, skeins of wool. On the front seat in a pool of blood lay a bottle of "Cover Girl" makeup. Beside it was a blood-stained miniskirt and a satchel with the legend "United Jewish Appeal. Field Travel Services, New York."

without any American advisers if they continued seeking out enemy bases in the Cambodia border region.

Laird claimed that the Cambodia offensive, which began three weeks ago, has been "a great tactical success" exceeding the expectations of Gen. Creighton W. Abrams.

The defense secretary said the success lay in "destroying facilities, uncovering ammunition and food," which he called the primary mission from a tactical standpoint.

3 More Quit Kissinger Staff; Asia Dissent Cited

By ROBERT M. SMITH

WASHINGTON — Henry A. Kissinger's National Security Council staff is losing at least three more members and there are unverified reports that two others are also resigning.

Those leaving include Laurence E. Lynn, director of the council's program analysis staff; Roger P. Morris, who has been handling special projects for Kissinger's personal staff.

It is understood that Lake is leaving for a number of reasons, one of which is his objection to the Administration's military operations in Cambodia. Lynn said he is leaving for personal reasons.

SOURCES report that other council staff members share Lake's concern about policy in Cambodia but are also unhappy about their personal working conditions.

Some members of the staff who are said to be leaving could not be reached for comment, and others would not speak for publication. Asked about the resignations, Kissinger said he preferred that his assistants speak for themselves.

resignations by six staff members last year.

The staff does both long-range and immediate research and policy planning in foreign affairs. Its job is essentially to provide the council, headed by the President, with information, options and advice on national security issues.

EXCLUSIVE
N.Y. Times Service

It could not be determined why the 32-year-old Morris is leaving. He has not yet set a date for his departure, but reportedly plans to leave before the fall.

It is understood that Lynn, who is also 32, will be leaving in late summer in order to take a teaching position at the graduate school of business at Stanford University.

LYNN IS SAID to be leaving the staff because of the pressures and long hours. He has been in government service for five years.

Those familiar with the council staff report that two more of Kissinger's assistants either have resigned or plan to do so. They say that a number of factors have led to unhappiness among the staff.

One of the major causes of disenchantment appears to be the Administration's decision to mount military operations in Cambodia. Another seems to be the heavy demands Kissinger makes on his staff in terms of workload, and hours — demands that are apparently sometimes communicated in peremptory fashion.

Cafe Society Spot

May Close Doors

NEW YORK (UPI) — During the 1930s and 1940s, El Morocco was a cafe society favorite. Tonight, longtime patrons will attend a party at the 54th Street Club. It may be the last one.

Publicist Ted Howard said the velvet rope may be drawn up permanently after the party because life under the plastic palm trees had palled for the postwar generation.

"The times, they are a-changing," said Howard. He said the club, which thrived into the 1950s, may open as a members-only operation next season, "but there's always the chance this is the end," he said.

NO PROBLEM HERE, WRIGHT SAYS

L.B. Among School Districts Warned on Language Bar

By ERNIE HERNANDEZ
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — A thousand U.S. school districts across the land — including the Long Beach system — were on notice today to remove discriminatory barriers against Spanish-surname pupils.

The policy was announced by Health Education and Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, and a memorandum signed by J. Stanley Pottinger, Director of HEW's Office of Civil Rights, was sent to each of the 1000 districts.

Among them are Pasadena, Long Beach and San Jose in California.

The HEW carefully noted that it's not charging any of the 1,000 school districts with discrimination. They were simply identified as those with more than five per cent national-origin minority enrollment.

"If students cannot understand the language their teachers are using, it's hopeless to expect them to learn," said Finch.

"THERE ARE SOME TWO MILLION Spanish-surnamed students in our public schools and almost 200,000 Oriental students. Overcoming the English language deficiency that exists is a first order of business."

Pottinger's memo underscores the responsibilities of the school districts under the law. It points out that his office administers Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which prohibits the use of federal funds for programs that discriminate as to race, color or national origin.

Specifically, the memorandum directs school districts to "take positive steps to correct the language deficiency" of those students who are excluded from the school's educational program because of their inability to speak and understand English.

The memo also directs the school districts:

—Not to assign students deficient in English by virtue of their national origin into classes for the mentally retarded, as has been done in some schools in the past.

—Not to deny such students access to college preparatory courses because of the failure of the school system to teach them English language skills.

—To ensure that parents of such students be notified of school activities, even if the notices have to be in language other than English.

—To speed up in-school programs dealing with special language skills for the children of national-origin minority group parents.

In Long Beach, Supt. W. Odie Wright said a large majority of Spanish-surname students in his district were reared locally and have no language problems to overcome.

ALTHOUGH RELUCTANT to comment in detail until he receives the HEW memo, Wright pointed out that last fall's ethnic survey showed only a 5.8 per cent Spanish-surname enrollment here.

It generally is recognized that most of these pupils come from second-, third-, or fourth-generation Long Beach or Catalina Island families, he said.

Elementary pupils speaking only Spanish, usually newly arrived from Mexico or Cuba, are assigned to classrooms with bilingual teachers or fellow pupils, he said. Children unable to understand English could not be attending special classes for the mentally retarded since those without knowledge of the language are not required to take the preliminary placement tests.

Wright said that a special junior high school program in English as a second language presently enrolls 43 students from across the city. The pilot project at Jefferson Junior High uses a specialist teacher and community and high school aides.

Senate Unit Denies UC Pay Hike

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee Friday voted to deny University of California faculty members a 5 per cent salary increase next year as recommended by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Sen. Howard Way, R-Exeter, who voted against the pay hike, said the committee knows the action "will be viewed as punitive, but we felt it was a step we ought to take."

The committee, on a split voice vote, decided to delete $5.8 million from the proposed 1970-71 budget to give the university professors a salary boost.

However, the panel approved a $62-million appropriation for a 5 per cent increase for state employee salaries and $9.7 million for a 5 per cent hike for state college faculty members.

WAY SAID THE increase for the college professor was "an oversight" and indicated if the committee took another vote, it would turn down the sum.

He said the deletion "certainly isn't final," since the proposed budget for next fiscal year has a long legislative path to travel before enactment, but added it was "a drastic step but one we felt we had to take."

"The world of academia is not in touch with the rank and file citizen of California," Way said, referring to taxpayer displeasure with campus turmoil.

He said the committee hopes the pay increase denial may spur on "responsible faculty members" to help solve the problems.

ROTC Wins Battle, Will Parade on UCLA Campus

Naval ROTC won the right Friday to stage its annual parade on the UCLA campus after a battle of words.

Chancellor Charles Young announced he had reversed the decision to cancel the spring event after protests from the Navy Reserve Officer Training Corps unit and a flood of telegrams.

The cancellation had been based on high anti-war feelings on campus. ROTC members protested, in turn, that their rights were being infringed on by bending to demands of anti-war militants.

Young appealed to anti-war factions to allow the parade to be staged as a "peaceful event." The chancellor said the parade, originally set for May 28, would be reset at an undetermined time.

Marine Col. Stephen Warren, who commands the 200-cadet unit, said a tentative date of Sunday June 7 had been set.

"We're very pleased," Warren said, "Our 200 young midshipmen are especially pleased. For them it was a first-hand experience in democracy in action."

Speakers Stolen From Parked Car

Paul L. Underwood, 391 Obispo Ave., told Long Beach police Friday that prowlers pried open the right window of his car while it was parked near his home and stole two speakers and car parts valued at $130.

Meanwhile, the formation of a faculty-student committee to investigate the actions of police and demonstrators during a disturbance on the campus May 5 was announced Friday.

Young said he has asked the group to reconstruct the events of the day when the doors of the men's gymnasium were destroyed and several windows were broken in other campus buildings, and 74 persons were arrested.

Young said the report should include "alleged acts of violence, my decision to invoke a state of emergency, the conduct of the Los Angeles and campus police, including alleged acts of violence, and alleged acts of violence on succeeding days."

Conservationists Criticize Proposed Oil Drilling Curbs

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel's proposal to curb oil drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel drew strong responses from conservation-minded citizens here Friday, most of them negative.

"I hesitate to say it is even a step in the right direction," said Sue Higman, chairman of the local Sierra Club chapter, "because very often you take that first step and the 25-mile beachfront until, on fact."

The Sierra Club is one of the groups fighting to bring a cessation to all drilling in the channel since a Union Oil Co. well 5½ miles off shore burst open on Jan. 28, 1969.

FOR 11 DAYS the oil coated some 800 square miles of water and lapped onto the white sand of a 25-mile beachfront until, on Feb. 7, the well was sealed with concrete, shutting off the leak. Oil has continued to seep slowly ever since.

On Thursday Hickel announced that the government would attempt to buy back from the oil companies the federal leases for drilling along 16 miles of populous Santa Barbara area coastline.

Although a turnaround in Administration policy concerning the offshore drilling, the plan, which would require congressional approval, was termed "completely unacceptable" by Alvin C. Weingand, co-chairman of a local citizens' group called Get Oil Out.

"It is a political maneuver," he said. "This is an election year and the Republicans are trying to do something, to improve their image environmental wise. This is what they have chosen to do."

WEINGAND, a former state senator, said the proposal does not go far enough. For one thing, he said, it would not prevent the Union Oil Co. platform which erupted last year from continuing its drilling, since it would be exempt under a program allowing pumping to relieve the pressure of the oil on the ocean floor.

Union Oil Co. had no comment on the proposal. Weingand and Mrs. Higman both were critical because the proposal does not affect the entire channel. "Somehow oil spills don't know sanctuaries," Mrs. Higman said.

"It does not protect the areas to the north and south," said Weingand, and the damned oil rolls in for miles."

Similar complaints were heard from George H. Clyde, chairman of the county board of Supervisors and the most forceful fighter against offshore drilling on the board.

"IT IS ALMOST meaningless in that the leases involved are the least desirable," he said. "Their cancellation will not solve the problem and will leave about 40 other leases on each side of the proposed sanctuary open for exploration and production, resulting in almost certain spillage and pollution."

"I'm afraid it's a kind of a smoke screen," Mrs. Higman said. "It's like being a little bit pregnant: You can't go on fooling yourself."

If most of the critics were unhappy, they did find some hope in the proposal. Weingand expressed hope it would provide a breakthrough in getting some congressional legislation started with the backing of the Interior Department.

"Once it is introduced it can always be strengthened with amendments," he said.

IT APPEARED this might be the very course of action taken. A spokesman for Rep. Charles M. Teague, R-Calif., who helped develop the plan, said the legislator may sponsor a bill incorporating it to get legislation moving, and then offer more restrictive amendments later.

The proposal was considered at least a start at solving the problem by Mayor Gerald Firestone, who favors canceling all leases in the channel until drilling companies can guarantee against seepage and blowouts.

Firestone said the plan showed the federal government "is moving in the right direction," although he had two questions about the proposal.

The mayor wanted to know first whether the five platforms within the proposed sanctuary would be allowed to continue operations, and if so, would it be for relieving pressure or for production.

Second, he wanted to know how spillage from outside the sanctuary would be kept from getting in.

VANSCOURT RELEASED

County Grand Jury indictment, and did not elaborate on why he dropped the other 10 counts.

Vanscourt changed his plea to guilty, after receiving a change of venue to San Diego County, on charges he had taken $14,116.32 from the estate of Mrs. Ida Strom, 83, who died in her Laguna Beach home.

He also pleaded guilty to pilfering the estate of a Newport Beach traffic accident victim, John MacInnes.

ORANGE COUNTY INVESTIGATIONS revealed that more than $150,000 in property and cash had been stolen from estates during the five years Vanscourt was public administrator.

Vanscourt, who sheriff's deputies said tried to kill himself by swallowing pills in his Orange County Jail cell on Jan. 21, 1967, disappeared after filing for election as public administrator in the first such vote for the office. Previously it had been an appointive post.

Vanscourt was arrested as he and Miss Hall returned from an inter-island airplane trip.

Miss Hall, now a 29-year-old tavern operator in Auburn, N.H., said she and Vanscourt went to Las Vegas on separate planes, and that after she met him at the gamblers' spa, they went to Hawaii, registering in a plush Walkiki Beach hotel penthouse as Mr. and Mrs. J. Hall.

Unaware their trip was being financed with stolen money, Miss Hall was not charged following Vanscourt's arrest.

FBI agents recovered $7,200 from Vanscourt, and the Internal Revenue Service later seized $4,688.18 in cash which he had deposited with the Orange County Employees Retirement Fund.

ARABS VISIT LOS ANGELES

Decry School Bus Ambush

The Arab guerrilla attack that killed eight children and three adults on an Israeli school bus drew a clear denunciation Friday from an Arab trade delegation visiting Los Angeles this week.

Kahlil Haddad, consul general of Jordan, told a news conference at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce that he and the others "deplore what happened. We condemn acts of violence against women and children, just as we condemn Israeli raids on Arab school children," he declared.

Haddad, spokesman for the seven-man delegation, was referring to an Israeli air raid on Egyptian targets which the Egyptians say killed 30 children in a primary school in the Nile Delta April 8.

Turning to Arab-American relations, the Lebanese official said that while the delegation wasn't entirely in accord with America's foreign policy in the Mideast, it nonetheless looked with favor on some of the "positive approaches" being taken by the Nixon Administration, including its apparent desire to see Israel pull back from the occupied Arab territories.

Haddad made it plain, however, that Arab-American relations could easily sour if the United States supplies new jet fighters to Israel.

As for the presence of Russian pilots in Egypt, Haddad countered with a claim that there are American Jews flying Israeli jets. But he did not elaborate.

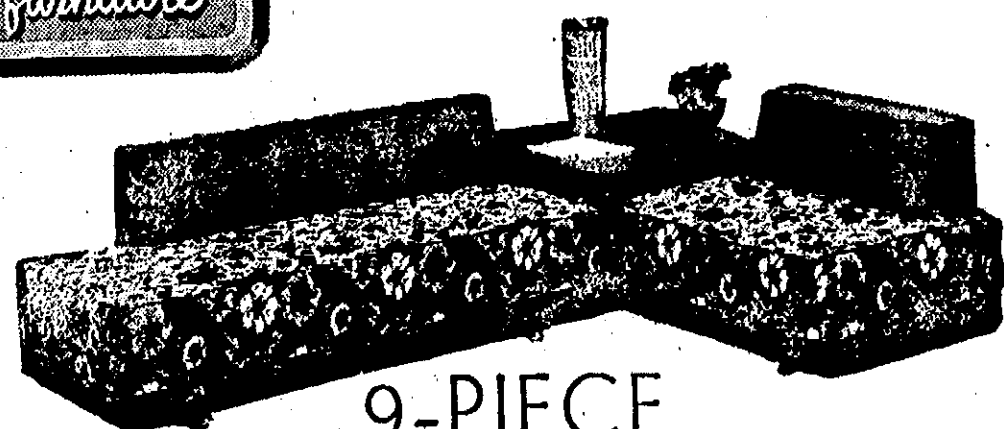

He gave some indication of Arab feelings on Israel when he described establishment of the state as "aggression" and likened Israel to a foreign organ that had been placed in an Arab body that wasn't able to accept it.

The Arab delegation, whose members include representatives of Saudi Arabia, Lebanon, Jordan, Libya and Kuwait, are here in connection with the chamber's World Trade Week. They have been visiting various cities to promote increased trade between the U.S. and their countries.

TO SEDENTARY MIDDLE-AGED

Heart Expert Brings Slight Reprieve

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A government heart researcher disclosed Friday night that middle-aged, previously sedentary men can benefit both physically and psychologically from less exercise than hitherto thought necessary.

The finding was reported by Dr. Samuel M. Fox III, Rockville, Md., chief of Heart Disease and Stroke Control Program of the U.S. Public Health Service.

He spoke at the Lafayette Hotel in Long Beach during a two-day scientific seminar sponsored by the American College of Cardiology, Memorial Hospital of Long Beach and the Long Beach Heart Association.

Dr. Fox said this and other findings came from an evaluation of three types of exercise programs conducted among 230 male employees of the headquarters staff of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in Washington, D. C.

Participants who adhered closest to those programs scheduled for them enjoyed the greatest rewards, as expected, Dr. Fox said. But the surprising element growing out of the study was that even those men who adhered less — that is, exercised less — benefited too.

Most significant of all was the finding that exceptional benefits are to be had with far less frequent exercise than prescribed by others such as Air Force Lt. Col. Kenneth Cooper, author of the best-selling "Aerobics."

DR. FOX SAID NASA employees were assigned to one of three types of exercise programs. Forty followed a home-exercise program, unsupervised but prescribed after a "clearance" physical examination. Forty others participated in group jogging. The others, 150, took part in a 10-station circuit-training program encompassing a warmup on a treadmill and short exercise periods involving a punching bag, stationary bicycle, wall pulleys, rowing machine, sit ups, rope jump, balance beam, treadmill again, and throwing a 12-pound medicine ball. The circuit program involved a total of 18 minutes of activity.

"Good adherers" enjoyed as many as five or six beneficial effects, Dr. Fox said. All participants were evaluated after a year in the programs.

Among the benefits experienced were greater stamina, weight loss, less stress and tension, increased physical activity beyond the prescribed exercise program, increased time devoted to recreation, more restful sleep, greater enjoyment of work along with less boredom.

Dr. Fox said major benefits from exercise were obtained with only three activity periods a week. A warmup followed by only 20 to 30 minutes of activity were sufficient in each exercise period to give major benefits, he added.

The physician said some benefits were seen even among those who exercised only 30 to 40 minutes a week.

The most beneficial type of exercise is that termed "endurance demanding," Dr. Fox continued. This type does the most for the heart and lungs, he said.

In addition to type, frequency and duration of exercise, a fourth important factor is the exercise's intensity, he said. The degree of intensity is calculated for each individual according to his heart rate, Dr. Fox said.

The study showed that a key factor in the success of a physical fitness program is the attitude of a man's wife.

"If the wife is supportive, that is not negative or neutral toward her husband's exercise program, then there is excellent to good adherence by the husband 80 per cent of the time," Dr. Fox said.

On the other hand only 40 per cent of participants were "good adherers" if the wife was negative or neutral, he noted.

In comparing the home, jogging and circuit-training (gymnasium) programs, more adherents and greater benefits were found in the gymnasium group. But because of variables, "we can't really say that the (gymnasium) programs did a better job in a manner that justifies the added expense involved," Dr. Fox commented.

The main thing the program proves, he said, is that exercise programs can improve the quality of life. And this, he believes, justifies building additional facilities such as jogging tracks and gymnasiums.

Thursday, Dr. Myrvin H. Ellestad, director of clinical, described a new technical physiology at Memorial Hospital that puts tiny gas bubbles in blood vessels to determine whether certain types of heart operations are really doing the job.

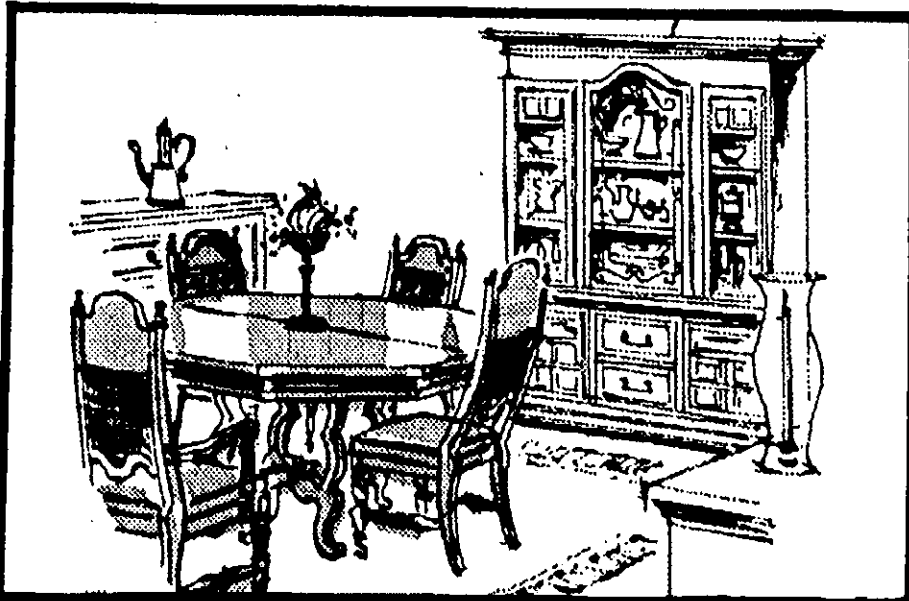

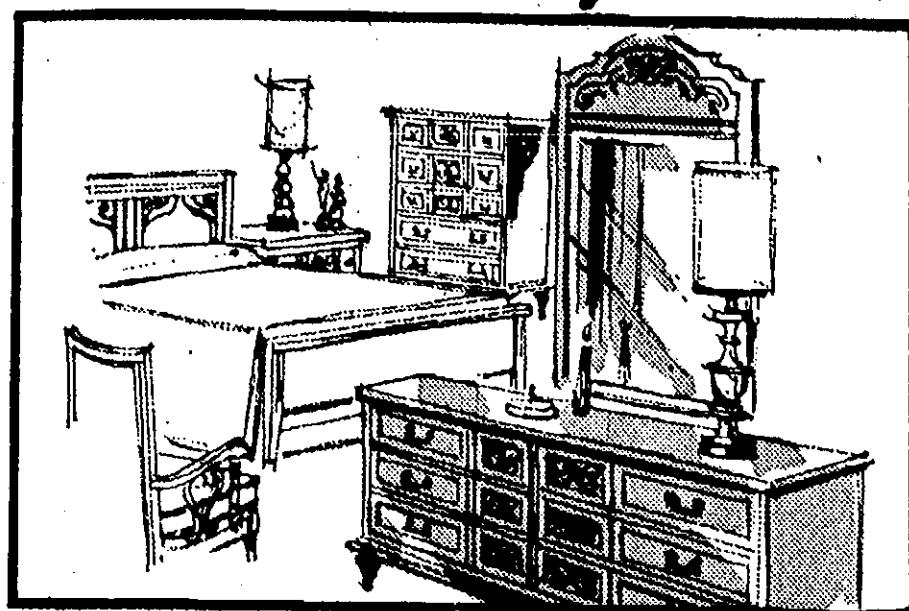

Dr. Ellestad said the technique, which has been performed on 29 persons so far, enable specialists to assess the effect of operations that bring more blood to the blood-deprived heart muscle.

$79Common Germ Lives
Three Years on Moon

By EDWARD K. DELONG

A common human germ survived the moon's hostile environment for almost three years inside a robot spaceship and was returned to earth alive by Apollo 12's astronauts, a space agency scientist reported Friday.

The discovery confirmed earlier speculation that germs from earth could survive in space for long periods of time and — if conditions became favorable — could start multiplying again.

It means that only by "putting out the effort and the money" to guarantee before launch that all germs on a spacecraft are dead can space planners guarantee against some possible contamination of other planets, Frederick J. Mitchell said at the Space Center in Houston.

MITCHELL, a microbiologist, found the streptococcus mitis bacteria on a bit of plastic foam from the television camera of the Surveyor 3 unmanned moonship that landed on the lunar Ocean of Storms in mid-1967. The camera was returned to earth last November by Apollo 12.

A doctor at the Manned Spacecraft Center called the discovery "certainly interesting, most interesting." But he said it carried no implications for the quarantine of lunar explorers and indicated nothing about the possibility of native life existing on the moon.

Dr. W. W. Kemmerer described the streptococcus mitis as "a benign bacteria" that is a mild relative of the strep throat germ.

MITCHELL said he put samples from the television camera in a special bacteria growth solution Jan. 8 and, four days later, found a "tail" of bacteria extending from the plastic foam sample. The fifth day, he said, the solution was cloudy with germs.

"You can imagine our consternation at finding an organism growing," Mitchell said. He said the bacteria got inside the camera during pre-launch repairs.

Parkewood Los Alamitos Opens Today

S & S MODEL, THE WILLOWS ... Open This Weekend at Parkewood Los Alamitos

Parkewood Los Alamitos, a 103-lot development, is the newest project of S & S Construction Co., a division of Shapell Industries, Inc., and is in the strategically located City of Los Alamitos.

Visitors to this weekend's opening will be enjoying favors and a free barbecue.

The project is totally walled-in with only one entry-exit, and one dedicated street which runs inside the wall around the entire perimeter of the development.

There are 3½ acres of beautifully landscaped common park area with entry through the rear of each lot. At the center of the development is a recreation complex featuring a two-story clubhouse with a large room equipped with a kitchen and bar which owners can reserve for private parties, a large swimming pool, Jacuzzi, sauna baths and play area for children.

Conversation pits and fireplaces in master bedroom suites are featured in some models. There is, of course, a Homeowners Association to maintain all common areas.

Nathan Shapell, President of Shapell Industries, Inc., the developer, said: "Our extensive marketing studies show there is a growing trend by certain families away from homes with big yards, even though they enjoy living, flowers, trees, a swimming pool, etc. The family we have in mind for Parkewood Los Alamitos could be a young couple, a middle-aged couple, or a retired couple."

THE COMMON DENOMINATOR is that they enjoy outdoor living and association with others of the same mind, but they don't want the work or expense involved in maintaining a big yard, a pool.

"Parkewood is aimed directly at such families, and we offer them many advantages not found in either apartment or mobile home living. These include spacious living and dining rooms plus master bedroom suites; complete privacy within walled lots; garages attached to their homes.

"But more importantly, we offer them a sound investment, one which will appreciate in value over the years, as high quality homes have done in California for generations."

Parkewood Los Alamitos home are priced from $26,950. Go north on Valley View off the San Diego Freeway to Lampson, turn left to Parkewood Los Alamitos sales office.

IN THE TRADITION of quality-built S & S Construction Company homes, every wall and ceiling is built with "genuine lath and plaster." Homes are positioned on a side and rear lot line.

Patio areas are completely enclosed. The wall of the adjoining home facing the patio is blank, so there is complete privacy in each patio.

Front setbacks are five to 10 feet. Because of this short setback, all garage doors are equipped with automatic openers, and owner's car is furnished with an activator.

Parkewood Los Alamitos consists of one and two-story homes, and features two to four bedrooms.

IT'S A PRIVATE WORLD

Last Segment of Bixby Hill Ready

Bixby Hill is the last remaining major segment of undeveloped residential real estate in Long Beach.

This brand-new community is a walled-in private area closely tied with old California tradition and the historical Bixby Ranch. This select site near the coastal waters is graced with cool, even tempered breezes all year 'round.

The superbly designed custom homes offer a wide range of architectural innovations, enhanced by an atmosphere of refined formality.

The unparalleled excellence of this secluded community is evidenced by distinguished homeowners — doctors, dentists, lawyers and leaders of industry.

THE "private World of Bixby Hills" is created on the choicest remnant of the historical Rancho Los Alamitos — a 26,000 acre estate.

Today, the original ranch house dating from 1784 and approximately 7½ acres surrounding it are an historical monument under the supervision and control of the City of Long Beach.

Entry to Bixby Hill is gained only through guard gates under the surveillance of trained police.

As with all S & S homes, the quality and workmanship of Bixby Hill homes is tops. Homes are available with split-level, single and two stories with three to seven bedrooms as well as two and three-car garages.

These homes are noted for their dramatic dimensions of space. Spectacular entryways and crystal chandeliers add to an aura of grandeur.

Sunken living rooms and formal dining rooms for elegant entertaining are complemented by family rooms available with fireplaces and step-down conversation pits and built-in wet bars.

Bright patio all-electric kitchens with master crafted cabinets open into kitchen nooks and breakfast areas.

IN THE master bedroom suites, large dressing rooms with walk-in closets and private baths are designed for spaciousness and comfort.

In some plans, a 'parents retreat' off the master suite is offered, which can be transformed into another bedroom if desired.

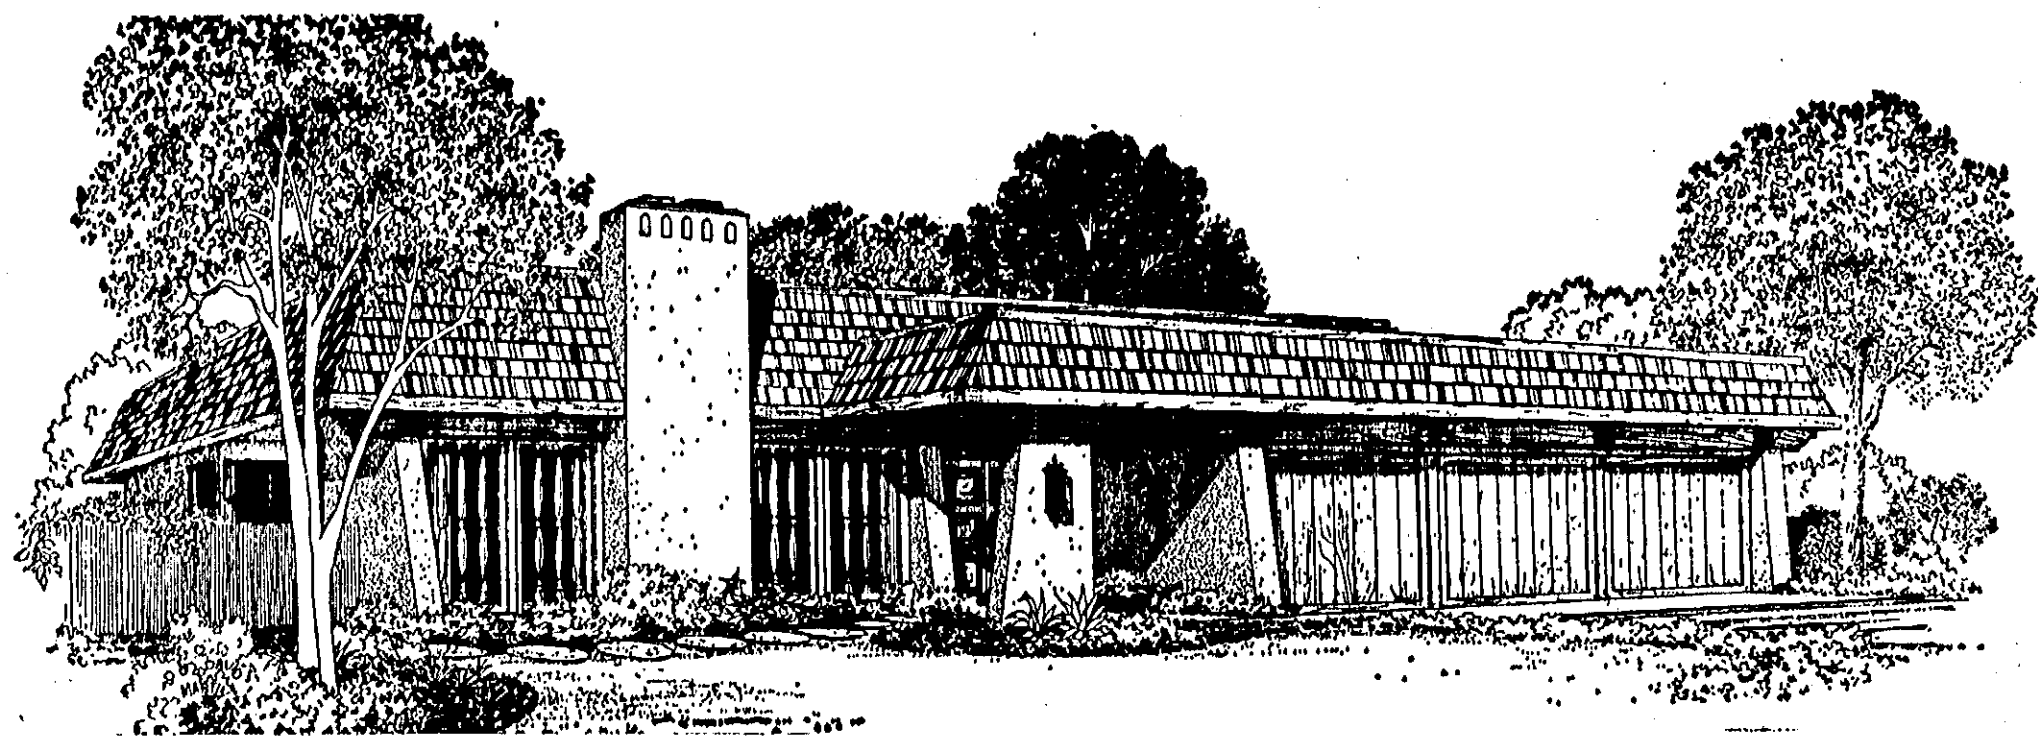

Bonus rooms are available for that special hobby or as a playroom; or, may be converted to extra bedrooms.

Another outstanding feature of one of the plans is a glass encased atrium located at the end of the entryway of the home.

To see this prestigious community, take the San Diego Freeway to Palo Verde, go south to Bixby Hill.

Corsicans Gain Entry to Park

With a continuing eye toward developing communities instead of simply building fourplex rental units, Kavanaugh-Beard Development Co. this week opened for public use a concrete bridge and walkway leading from their Corsican development in Huntington Beach to the adjacent 17-acre Murdy Park and elementary school.

"The bridge and adjacent walls were constructed by K-B at a cost in excess of $5,000," said Jim Beard, "but we feel the long-term use of this innovation will more than justify the initial cost. It is a safe, pleasant way into the park and our owners and their tenants are grateful for this new access."

A TYPICAL Corsican fourplex at the Warner Avenue and Gothard location will contain one large three-bedroom, two-bath units; a pair of two-bedroom, two-bath units; and a deluxe single.

"We incorporate quality features often found only in the better homes," says Don Kavanaugh.

"That's why people who rent prefer our units to the 'barracks type' of rental property. Our buildings resemble large homes — both from the street appearance and living capability. When you consider that we offer dwellings with gas appliances, 100 per cent nylon shag carpeting, dishwashers and stainless steel sinks in every unit, the living in a Corsican fourplex simply is the best."

INCOME-producing property with a built-in capability for tax shelter is attracting record interest among large investors and also those who are moderately capitalized.

"In these days when we are experiencing increased taxes through surcharges and increased state taxes," said Baird, "our fourplexes offer the unique advantages of a home with income and tax shelter through the various approaches to depreciation.

"The quality of our buildings justifies the rental schedules our owners enjoy."

"Our vacancy factor compares favorably with any in this area."

"Today at our sales office in Huntington Beach at Warner and Gothard we will have available proven capitalization information and our staff will be on hand to explain our program to people who are considering this kind of an investment for the first time."

three car garages; another plan offers an area in the second level called the "imagination room" that can be used as the homebuyer desires, whether it be extra bedrooms or study and work rooms.

When Landmark Homes-Cerritos opens, it will introduce its new "creative side yard" concept. With it an extra five foot strip of land is added to the homeowners garden area by "borrowing" from his neighbor. This successive borrowing is legally guaranteed by means of a permanent easement recorded in the grant deeds.

FORCED air heating, fireplaces, acoustical ceilings and built-in tv antennas will be included in most plans while every home will enjoy rear yard fencing and patio kitchens with deluxe equipped range, hood, fan, oven, disposal and dishwasher.

The Cerritos development by Signal Landmark, Inc., one of the Signal Companies of Los Angeles, is a private walled community with underground utilities.

To reach the Landmark Homes model area from the San Gabriel Freeway, take the South Street exit east from the Artesia Freeway, take the Northwalk Boulevard exit south to South Street and turn left to the five model homes.

Crude Oil Refinery Runs Slipping

Despite slight increases in steel and auto output, the index dropped 0.2 per cent below a week ago — an 0.5 per cent decrease below a year ago.

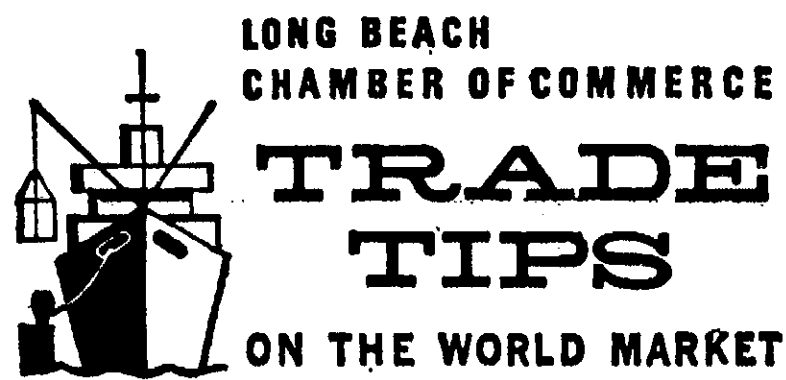

Auto output gained 0.8 per cent in the current week, and pulled 11.2 per cent ahead of last month.

Steel production went up 0.5 per cent, future gains may be affected by price increases announced by Bethlehem Steel, and U.S. Steel.

Crude oil refinery runs slipped 0.6 per cent, electric power output lost 3.9 per cent.

Miscellaneous carloadings inched 0.6 per cent ahead, reflecting gains in motor vehicle transport and metals and products; all other carloadings dropped 4.5 per cent; intercity truck tonnage went above last week's figures, and gained 1.6 per cent.

Paperboard production went up 1.4 per cent, responding to increases in retail sales for the week.

Automated 'Tellers' Stick-Up Proof

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's not much point saying "stick 'em up" to Surety National Bank's new automated tellers. Machines don't know how to reach for the sky.

But there's little use in saying "Hi beautiful" or "haven't we met somewhere before" either. The automated tellers don't wear lipstick and they're not about to accept your offer of a date.

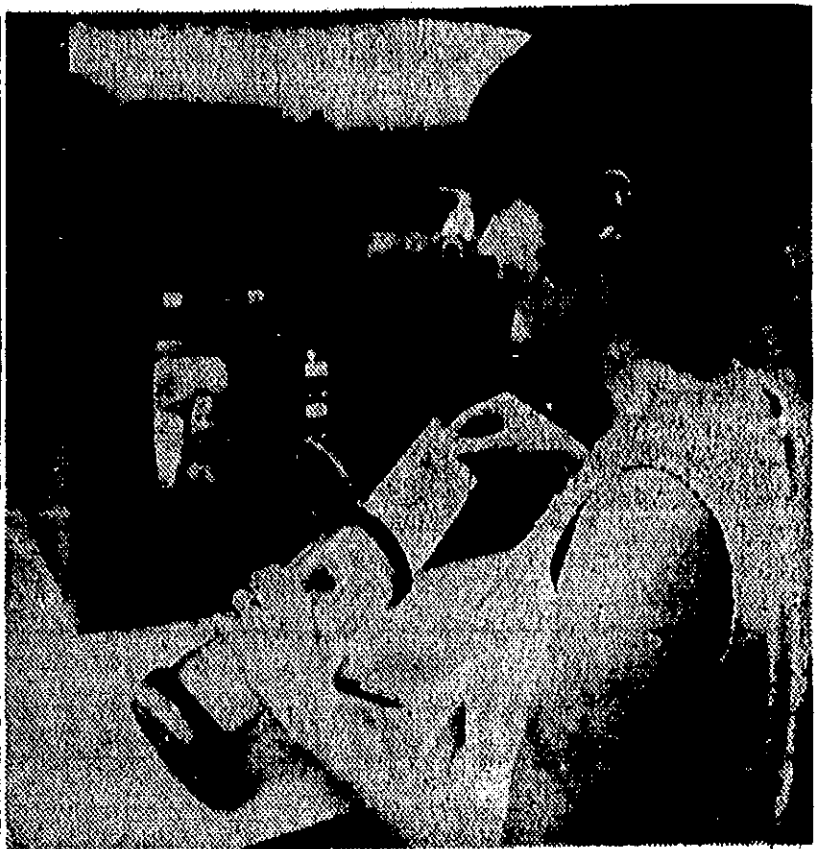

On the other hand, automated tellers take on the average of only three minutes per transaction and can cut in half the time you wait in line to cash a check.

Surety unveiled its first automated bank branch Thursday in the city's Civic Center. It features an "instant cash" machine, a check validating machine and a closed circuit TV "teletation" which lets teller and customer communicate without touching. Money is exchanged through vacuum tubes. Officials claim this makes the bank just about robbery-proof.

"The teller's work is reduced to one-fifth of the usual load," says bank president Oscar L. Grossman. "We will be serving the same volume of business with five tellers as most banks serve with 20."

An "instant cash" card activates the "instant cash" machine, signaling it to spew out cash. Grossman says. A fake card won't work, he says, and a stolen card will be "swallowed" by the machine, followed by bell-ringing and light-flashing. The check cashing machine works on a similar principle, Grossman said, with built-in protection against would be forgers.

Anemostat-West Building in Carson

Anemostat-West, subsidiary of Dynamics Corporation of America (DCA), will expand its West Coast operations with a new 80,000-square-foot plant to be built at Watson Industrial Center, Carson. The building will house the company's executive offices and manufacturing and distribution facilities and will be located on five acres at 1240 Watsoncenter Road, Carson.

At ground-breaking ceremonies, President H. S.

McClelland Jr. announced the firm has signed a long-term lease for the site with Watson Industrial Properties.

Watson, with the responsibility for the building, expects construction to be completed within the next four months. The building will be a tilt-up concrete structure with an office facade of split-face block, designed to meet the developer's industrial park standards.

"BESIDES the obvious advantages of this location within the Los Angeles-Long Beach transportation grid," McClelland said, "Watson's development program assures us that we will have space for anticipated further growth and will not be limited as we were at our older downtown location."

DCA Vice President John D. Halloran, of New York City, confirmed that the new location had been decided upon after a "careful search and comparison" of various industrial areas in Los Angeles County.

Anemostat-West will employ about 14 persons at its new Watson Industrial center plant. Its primary distributing territory will include the ten western states.

W. H. Daum & Staff, Los Angeles industrial realtors, represented both parties in the lease transaction.

Visitor Count Climbing at La Linda, Fountain Valley

The number of visitors at the new La Linda development in Fountain Valley increased almost 50 per cent over the previous week, according to a marketing report by Walker & Lee, Inc.

The report for the newest project by Tricon Development showed that 139 persons attended the preview opening last week while only 74 saw the La Linda homes the previous week.

At the same time, the report of visitor traffic over six counties for the week was down 16 per cent. The average number visiting each development throughout the areas reported was 63.

LOCATED on Euclid Street, just north of Warner Avenue in Fountain Valley, and across the street from the city's Mile Square Park, the $8 million La Linda community of 228 homes offer single, two-story and tri-level plans ranging in price from $31,950 to $37,000.

Miles Square Regional Park, across from the Euclid Street model entrance, offers a number of recreational facilities.

An 18-hole golf course is now open. An historic village, children's zoo, three-acre lake, hiking trails, tot lots picnic areas, teen dance center, cultural center and bicycle trails are now under construction at the park.

LA LINDA has four model homes of Spanish, contemporary and traditional designs. Plans with three, four and five bedrooms, two or three baths and two and three car garages are available.

Drapes, double entry doors, fireplaces with log lighters, custom carpeting, paneled family room walls, formal dining rooms, private bath suites for all master bedrooms, forced air heating and walk-in closets are all included in the La Linda homes.

The exteriors are provided with wood shake and shingle roofs, concrete driveways, front private courts, rear yard fencing and balconies.

FHA, VA and conventional terms are available. Walker & Lee, exclusive brokers for the homes, will keep offices and models open daily from 10 a.m. to dusk.

WORLD OF WHEELS

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

By the time it is introduced later this summer, Chevrolet's new small car, Vega 2300, will have covered enough hot, cold, wet and dry test miles for about 240 trips around the world.

During the tests it has attracted the attention of thousands of observant motorists, suspicious policemen and curious service station attendants.

After one recent trip, while still using the codename XP 887, test engineers reported that "people swarmed all around the cars wherever we went and stopped." One teenager even managed to take a ride in one of the cars.

Nearly six million miles of actual and simulated test driving and operation are scheduled to be completed before the car's introduction.

This includes about a million miles of actual road testing at GM proving grounds in Michigan and Arizona and in various other parts of the United States, and the equivalent of more than five million miles of simulated test operations in Engineering laboratories.

The severity of these tests usually is three times greater than that to which an owner would ever subject his car.

TESTING OF THE ALL-NEW Vega 2300 and its components, including its unique lightweight engine, was begun several years ago by the General Motors engineering staff and research personnel.

When it was announced in 1968 that Chevrolet would build and market the car, Chevrolet engineers took charge of four pre-test vehicles and a dozen early versions of the revolutionary four-cylinder engine for further development.

"Cobbled" Novas, Opels and specially built pre-test units were put into service last year. These cars and others built since were used on road tests throughout southeastern Michigan, long-distance driving such as one trip that ran from Pike's Peak in Colorado to Mesa, Ariz., and specialized trials such as extreme cold-weather tests in northern Minnesota and Michigan.

Not all of these trips were without their lighter or darker moments as the cars and their engineer-drivers plowed through snow storms, shivered through cold fronts and all but wilted in heat waves.

In most cases, imports and domestic small cars were taken along on road trips for comparison's sake.

IT WAS ON A TRIP last winter from Detroit to Benton Harbor, Mich. — most of it under blizzard conditions — that a Chevrolet engineer had one of his most trying moments.

He couldn't find the light switch on the import car he was driving although he tried every identifiable knob. He drove without lights until the next driver-change stop where a young engineer pulled a twisted and unidentified knob to throw light on the situation.

The same caravan of four camouflaged Vegas and four comparison cars then noticed an uninvited guest — a competitive car with dealer license plates that roared up and followed along for about 10 miles. What he may have learned remains a mystery.

PORTS O'PROGRESS

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

Mrs. Helen Delich Bentley, chairman of the Federal Maritime Commission, skipped over many paragraphs of her prepared National Maritime Day speech in Los Angeles this week so she would have time to speak out on another national crisis — riots and confrontations with authorities.

After charging the American Merchant Marine is in sad, sad shape to the extent it too has reached a crisis, she said if the current rash of civil disorders are not resolved soon the problems of a waning Merchant Marine would be insignificant by comparison.

Following her speech which was given a standing ovation by the Los Angeles-Long Beach Propeller Club meeting in the Biltmore Hotel, John J. Parkinson, president commented:

"Those words needed saying and those words need listening to!"

Unknown at the time to Parkinson whose name has appeared in this column many times in connection with his duties as assistant general manager of the Los Angeles Harbor Department and with his many and varied services to the maritime industry, had been selected to receive the 1970 Foreign Trade Association Bronze Plaque for his outstanding service in support of international trade.

The honor is well placed.

OCEAN INTERNATIONAL, INC., located on Stearns Wharf in Santa Barbara, has acquired the Commercial Diving Center in Wilmington.

Houston Childers, former U.S. Navy master diver and assistant officer in charge of the Navy's experimental diving unit and founder of the diving center, will continue as president under the new arrangement.

Lad Handelman, president of Oceaneering International, said acquisition of the diving center is part of the parent company's planned growth program. Planned to be opened soon is a combination diver-training and industry research center in Houston, Texas.

The Houston center will cater to oil company engineers and subsea equipment manufacturers as well as diving trainees.

REAR ADM. CHARLES TIGHE, commander of the 11th Coast Guard District, points out that a recent report repeated here that he once had run out of gas while piloting his own houseboat and called the Coast Guard for assistance was in error.

He said the erroneous report could subject the Coast Guard to possible unwarranted future criticism. The admiral said the Coast Guard frequently issues citations to pleasure boat skippers who run out of gas due to carelessness or sloppy seamanship and then call for help from the Coast Guard.

"I can just imagine some skipper we have cited saying, 'I'll bet the admiral didn't get a citation when he ran out of gas,'" the admiral said.

He further pointed out that his boat was the first to receive a Courtesy Motorboat Inspection decal from the Coast Guard Auxiliary on opening day of the Boating Safety Center on Terminal Island.

Colorado River Rates as Big Recreational Center

The Colorado River has become the center of recreation for many of Southern California's boaters, skiers, fishermen and just plain sun-seekers.

People of all ages flock to this wonderland of sun, fun and sand in herds to escape the hustle and bustle of daily urban and suburban life.

Big River is part of this oasis. Eleven and a half miles of River along the California side of the river near Parker, Ariz. You can find everything at Big River; from glassy smooth sking water to the best fishing on the River.

THIS IS the first development of its kind on the stretch of the River below Squaw Dam.

Available for use there is a launching ramp for pleasure boating and skiing, a new snack bar, a wading pond for the kids and plenty of fun for all.

Penn Phillips Lands, Inc., the developers of Big River, has constructed six beautiful model vacation homes open to public viewing on the site, featuring the Air Flow House which is the first home to use solar convection to air condition the entire structure.

BIG RIVER is Indian Land and has been for over 100 years. An Act of Congress allowed the Colorado River Indians to release this land for public sale through Penn Phillips Lands as leaseholds valid until the year 2029 A.D. with the privilege of resale or sublease.

EXOTIC RIVERSIDE LEASE-HOLDS ... Attract Southlanders

A leasehold can be obtained at Big River for about $9 a month after the initial investment. Further information of Big River can be obtained through Colorado River, P. O. Box 365, Earp, Calif. 92242.

White Cross Opening Fourth Store in '70

White Cross Discount Centers, Inc., this month will open its fourth new store in 1970, bringing the total number of company-owned outlets to 19.

The latest is located in the new Soledad Canyon Shopping Center in Saugus.

Other stores opened this year were in downtown Los Angeles, El Centro and Oxnard.

White Cross stores feature merchandise in the health products, beauty aids, and general sundries field, and several of the stores have pharmacy operations.

In addition, the company is experimenting with establishing wig and record sections in the stores. The recently opened store in downtown Los Angeles was the first to have a wig and record section and is proving successful. Other stores in the chain are now being considered for wig and record business as well as for pharmacy operations.

ACCORDING to David Buxbaum, vice president of operations, the company's 20th store is under construction in Ridgecrest.

Casa Del Amo Drawing Record Number of Visitors

Casa Del Amo, S.I.R. Development's newest home project in Cerritos, has reported the largest number of visitors over the last four weeks than any other tract listed in the weekly Walker & Lee marketing report of traffic.

Just over 1,000 persons, an average of 250 persons a week, have visited Casa Del Amo since it opened April 26.

The average for all developments listed in the most recent marketing report was 295 persons over the last four weeks, a weekly average of 74 persons. Fifty-six developments, located in six California counties, are listed in Walker & Lee's "Tract Action Report."

CASA Del Amo, a $6½ million project, has 192 new homes of one and two-story designs within its private walled boundaries on Bloomfield Avenue, one block north of Del Amo Boulevard, in Cerritos.

The three and four-bedroom homes begin at $27,990 with VA, FHA and conventional terms. Some 12 different architectural styles, from contemporary California to Spanish, are available.

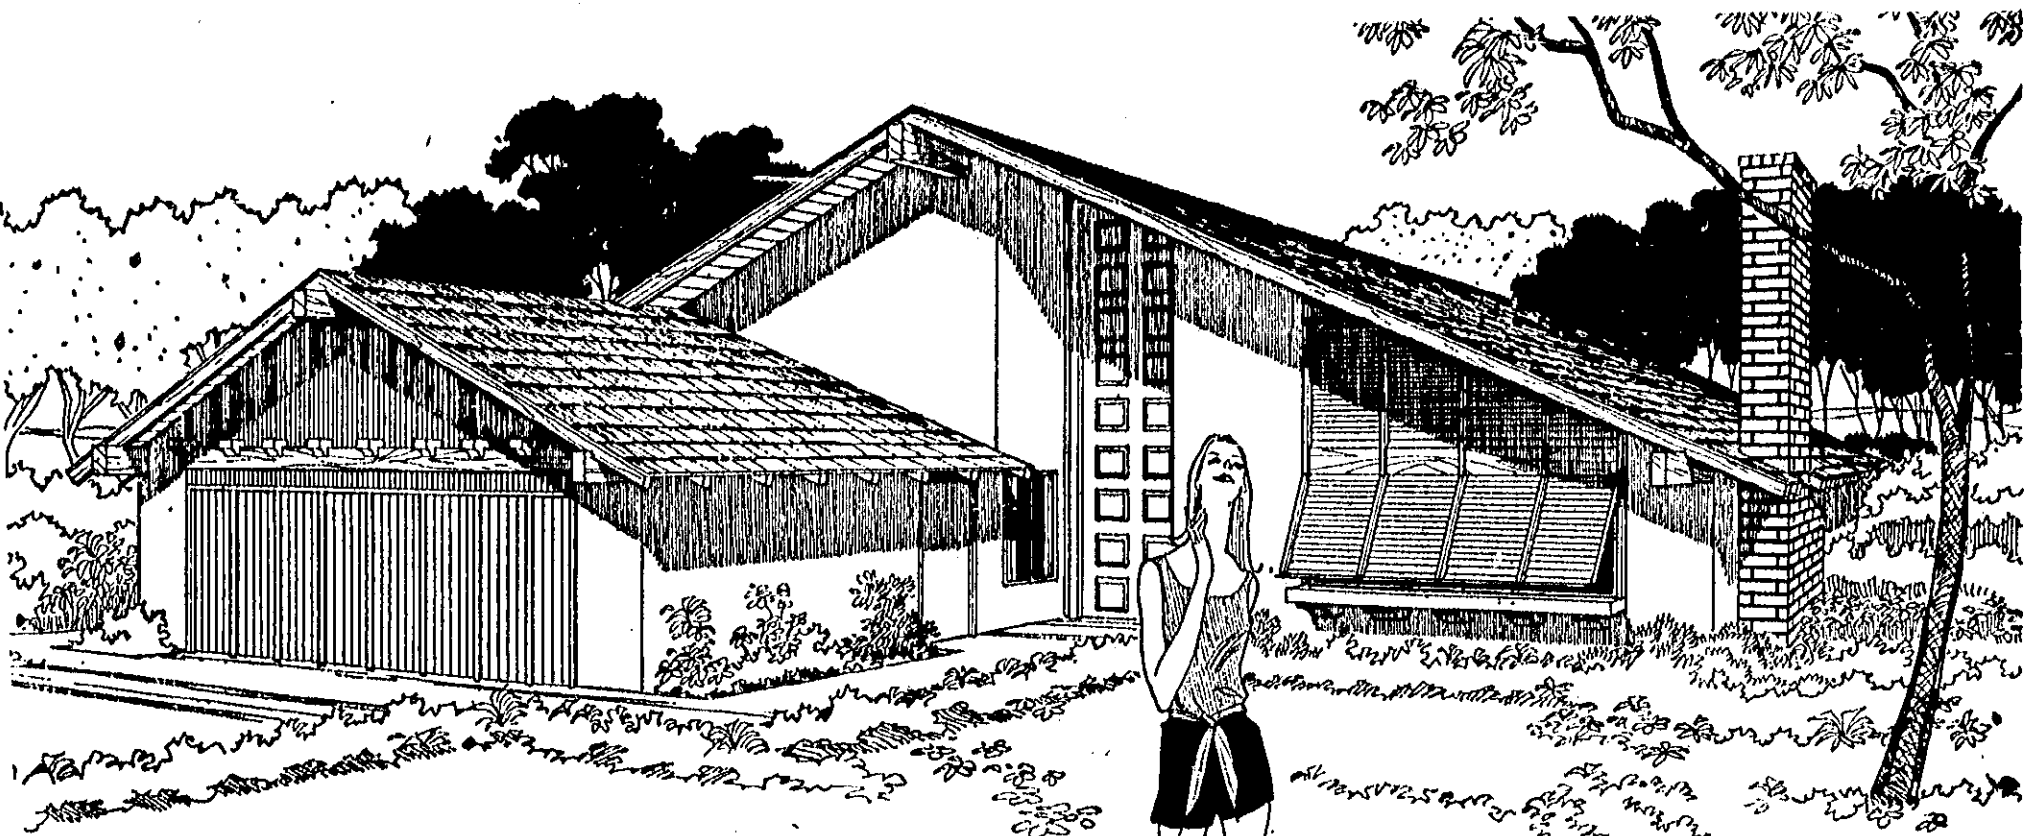

Directly across the street from the entrance is the site for a proposed 80-acre city park.

Preliminary plans call for the park to include football and baseball fields, playgrounds, a wading pond, covered pavilion, picnic grounds and tables, numerous parking areas and convenient restroom stations.

INCLUDED in the purchase price at Casa Del Amo are continuous filament nylon carpeting, gas log lighter fireplaces, luminous ceilings, marble topped pullmans, cathedral ceilings, rear yard fencing and concrete driveways.

Also featured are wood shingle and shake roofs, and built-in oven-range, dishwasher and disposal. The entire ceiling area is insulated and rear yards have electrical outlets for convenience in patio entertainment.

THE LIVING room of the Cortez has a cathedral ceiling with large exposed beams. The entry way is finished in a stepping stone effect, created by the use of both tile and carpeting.

South Street Hospital Is Rising on 3.6-Acre Site

The South Street Hospital, the second full service hospital in the city of Lakewood, will be built on a 3.6 acre site at 3700 South St.

At groundbreaking ceremonies, attended by city officials, Richard K. Eamer, president of National Medical Enterprises, which will build and operate the facility, said the 163-bed hospital will encompass 103,000 square feet.

When completed, the hospital will have 380 employees and will provide, besides regular hospital services, intensive care and coronary units.

Eamer, whose corporation operates five general hospitals and four convalescent homes in California, including the Los Altos Hospital in Long Beach, said the facility will be completed in 15 months.

Contractor for the project is Soltec Inc. of Oakland, while architect Kenneth Wing, Long Beach, is designer.

Bluffs' Private Park Dedication Set May 31

Sunday, May 31, will see the newest private park dedicated at George M. Holstein and Sons' Bluffs community with ribbon cutting set for 1 p.m. at the community in the Eastbluff area of the Irvine Ranch in Newport Beach.

The new park will combine with massive Olympic size swimming pool, barbeque and play area to offer the home buyer the relaxed living that has made the Bluffs famous, the developers pointed out.

The private park and pool area is immediately adjacent to the newest Bluff Park Homes and Towne Houses.

The models are open daily and highlight three, four and five bedroom plans. The site is within walking Burroughs Seminars Set in L.B.

An estimated 500 area executives will take part in seminars in Long Beach next week on the latest uses on electronic terminal computers and billing computers, electronic accounting systems, and general business machines in business, industry and government.

The three days of seminars, beginning Tuesday at Holiday Inn, San Diego Freeway & Lakewood Boulevard, will be sponsored by Burroughs Corporation.

R. P. Randall, manager of the Burroughs branch in Long Beach, said the Burroughs 128000 electronic accounting system and the L2000 and TC500 billing and terminal computers will be the "stars" of the Business Systems Show, which is touring the country in a specially outfitted van.

Other machines and systems to be demonstrated will cover the spectrum of data handling needs for all sizes of business. These machines will range from new electronic calculators up through the larger electronic systems.

Because new methods of using business machines are developed rapidly, said Randall, seminars such as this are held "to keep the business community up to date."

DRAMATIC ENTRYWAY OF PLAN 404... In Mesa Woods

Mesa Woods' 2nd Unit Adds Newest Designs

The homebuyer at Mesa Woods in Costa Mesa this weekend can preview the newest of designs — interior and exterior — which have been added to the selection in the popular development's second unit, it was announced by David R. Berman, partner in George J. Heltzer & Associates, builders-developers.

"When our surveys showed that many families preferred more areas for entertaining and family enjoyment, we responded with Plan 404, which has five such areas," Berman said.

"These are living room, formal dining room, rear yard, family room and conversation pit. Vaulted ceilings over the entry hall and living room areas add dramatic effect. And children aren't robbed of sleep if you entertain at night; the master suite is downstairs, but the other bedrooms are upstairs in the quiet zone."

THE PLAN was developed after a survey of 500 homebuyer families indicated sales would be brisk if such a plan were made available, the builder said.

Buyer reaction to the introduction of the new plan substantiates the findings of the survey.

"We are an independently owned firm," Berman explained, "and can make such changes and additions in mid-stream of a sales campaign. Because of this independence, we are not hampered by red tape of boards of directors and can respond quickly when the public indicates its preferences."

THE FIRM has been independent through its more than 45-year history and is now Southern California's oldest exclusively residential builder.

The builders' experience made it possible to arrange a pricing structure which requires minimum investment for a move-in.

Homes are made immediately livable with the inclusion in prices of such expensive items as back yard fencing, front yard landscaping, front yard sprinkler system, carpeting, continuous-cleaning oven and automatic dishwasher among the kitchen built-ins.

Prices are from $28,500. VA, FHA and conventional terms are available.

NOTABLE interior details include two-way fireplace with conversation pit, florentine tile hearth,

When lining a closet with moth-proof aromatic red cedar, cover the ceiling, floor and inside of door, too.

Bauer Home 'Plan Three' Flexible for Young Couples

Plan Three, the model with the optional parents' retreat, is one of the best liked plans at Bauer Homes-Cerritos, reports Pete Blair, vice president of marketing for Bauer Development Co.

"Our Plan Five model also has a parents' retreat — but as a permanent, standard feature," Blair said.

"Plan Three, on the other hand, is more flexible in that a young couple can buy the home as a three-bedroom model with the optional parents' retreat. Later, if family growth necessitates conversion of the retreat to a nursery, a fourth bedroom or a library, this can be done easily."

BLAIR indicated that another popular feature of the plan is the custom masonry living room fireplace, which is included in the basic price of $27,950.

"Storage is also one of the strong points of this model," he added. "The kitchen has two pantries. The master bedroom closet is large with 'H's and hers' sides, and the family bedrooms have large wardrobes. In addition, the garage has a full-length storage wall."

Bauer Homes come in two series with identical models in each. The 115-home Pool Series, on Marquardt Street, just south of Artesia Boulevard, has its own private swim and recreation club. The Park Series is a 24-home neighborhood next to Pat Nixon Park on South Street.

BAUER Homes offers a choice of five different models with two to four bedrooms, priced from $24,950 to $29,950. The Pool Series has FHA-VA financing with a special, below-the-market interest rate of 8 per cent — while the Park Series has conventional financing.

Included are such expensive features as custom architectural detailing, self-cleaning ovens, carpeting and draperies, front-yard landscaping and sprinklers, and complete backyard fencing.

Models for both developments are on South Street,

Landlord Did Not Approve Tenant's Roof Repairs

For those who have long fought the great rental battle, the cynical conclusion that you can't please a landlord gradually resumes real dimensions.

You burn up a couple of dimes, knock a few head-sized holes in the plaster, or walk off with the bathtub and the landlord is immediately incensed. Even when you try to be helpful, and add a few improvements of your own, he doesn't like that either.

Property Owners' Forum Set

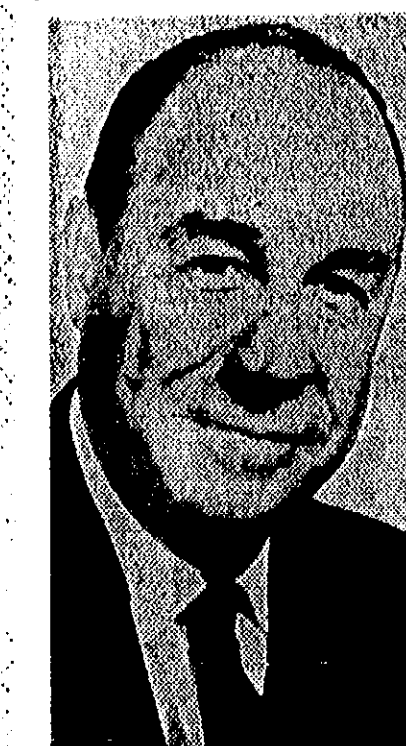

Tom Wilson, vice president, Apollo Construction Company, Santa Ana, will address the Builders and Income Property Owners Managers Forum to be held at the Southern California Edison Company, Long Beach, Thursday at 11:30 a.m.

Jim McElroy, educational chairman, Apartment House Association, Long Beach-Southern Cities, said Wilson, a veteran in the area of building under FHA and Veteran Administration projects, has been associated with the Builders of Suburbia Homes and apartment projects for more than six years.

The speaker has been in Washington D.C. many times over the decade studying the many changes in building laws and has become an expert speaker and consultant in the construction field. He will address the group on "Building Under FHA" and other related federal laws and regulations.

OTHER speakers of the luncheon session will be June Linder, home economist, Edison Company, discussing "Cooking the Electric Way"; "Legislation in Sacramento Today" will be presented by Eugene L. Zechmeister, executive vice president, Apartment House Association, and Bernhard J. Specht, president, Apartment House Association, and president of Trade Association, will moderate the meeting.

Due to the limited space in the Edison Company Living Center, reservations are requested by calling the Apartment House Association.

Cedarizing Old Closet Good

Closed space is all that's needed to have a moth-repelling cedar closet. Many families simply convert an existing closet by nailing aromatic red cedar closet lining to the walls.

Available at leading lumber dealers everywhere, each package contains installation instructions. The cedar boards are long and grooved for easy construction.

Cedar covering all space and door that can be closed tight to keep in the aroma are the only prerequisites to creating a fine cedar closet in an existing space.

My wife sold a house and a lot on a contract that provides, among other things, that the buyer "is to keep the same in good condition at all times, and to pay all taxes, liens, assessments or impositions that may be legally levied upon said property." But "the buyer shall not make any alterations without the written consent of the seller."

Recently, the buyer decided to give up the contract and move out. During the time he was making payments, he had a new roof installed without the knowledge or consent of my wife. Before moving out he had paid the roofing contractor $400 on a $600 agreed price for the new roof.

I feel sure that the contracting buyer will not pay the remaining $200 to the roofing contractor. Can the roofing contractor collect from my wife? Incidentally, the $600 price for the roof was about double what the job was worth.

MR. J. W. C.

ANSWER: This was certainly helpful of your tenant (would-be-buyer) but wouldn't it have simplified things immensely if he had paid cash for the job?

Frankly, without knowing more about the contract than you have outlined here, it's impossible to know where the liability lies in this matter, and I suggest that you consult your attorney on it. From what you have told me, it would seem to me that the roofing contractor does indeed have a pretty solid case against your wife but — for whatever it's worth — you would also seem to have a pretty good case against the former tenant. The question, of course, is whether it's worth the time and sweat to try to collect the $200.

Look at it philosophically — you're getting a $600 roof, which you say is worth $300 for the cut-rate price of $200. That's not too bad a deal anyway you slice it.

MR. CAMPBELL:

My husband and I would very much like to buy a farm on which to raise our children. Having filed bankruptcy some five years ago, we are now buying a $16,000 home on a VA loan. Assuming that we can get the $1,500, we will ask for our equity, and can put another $500 with it, we would like to know what type of financing is available to us. We have an income of between $11,000 and $12,000 a year and are out of debt.

— Mrs. M. E.

ANSWER: With the sort of capital you are able to scratch up here, your best bet, as far as financing is concerned, is to go the contract route, which, incidentally, accounts for approximately 30 per cent of all of the farm real estate debt now outstanding.

Under this arrangement, of course, the actual transfer of the land to you will not take place until you have satisfied the terms of the contract. In other words, you will take over physical possession of the land, but not the title. In the event of default, then, the seller can re-claim the land with virtually no red tape.

Another method of obtaining farm property is through loans issued by the Federal Land Bank system, which is supervised by the Farm Credit Administration, but I don't think this is quite your bag as it will authorize loans only up to 55 per cent of the appraised value of the farm. The land contract would seem to be the most practical method for you to realize your dream with minimal risk and a minimal down payment.

MR. CAMPBELL:

I am currently in the process of buying some commercial real estate — my first venture — and I am a little confused by my real estate broker's occasional references to "covenants" in connection with the transaction.

I don't like to seem stupid in front of him so I am wondering if you could enlighten me — Mr. B. C.

ANSWER: Essentially a covenant is simply an agreement in a deed, or some other instrument, spelling out specific activities or uses that are either permitted or prohibited on the real estate in question.

In other words, you can't raise goats.

(Campbell welcomes letters. He is unable to enter into personal correspondence, but will answer as many letters as possible through the column.)

Westhaven Located Near Beautiful Milesquare Park

One of the nicest things about work, someone said, is that you can do what you want when you are through.

This statement certainly holds true for residents of Westhaven, a Shields Development Co. planned community of more than 800 homes in Westminster-Fountain Valley, which is located across the street from Orange County's most fabulous new recreational facility.

Milesquare Park, which has been open for some time with its 18-hole public golf course, is scheduled to have acres of hiking trails, ponds for wading, streams for fishing and small lakes for boating, as well as bike paths and a score of other activities.

both one and two story models, with a total of 20 exterior designs to choose from.

These spacious homes have built-in kitchens with double ovens, dishwashers, luminous ceilings and optional pass-through patio windows and bars.

ALSO included in the price of these homes is the famous Shields' "turn-key" package, which includes carpets, drapes and rear-yard fencing, so that homeowners can move right in with no additional expense.

There is also the Shields "decorator service" which means that homeowners can meet with the full-time decorating consultant and choose colors, fabrics and fixtures to suit their own personal tastes and needs.

To see these furnished three and four-bedroom homes, take either the Santa Ana or Garden Grove freeway south on Brookhurst or the San Diego Freeway north to the sales office and model complex with its special children's play area. The models are open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk.

Cosmodyne Receives $6 Million Contract

A contract of more than $6 million for a liquefied natural gas (LNG) ship loading system has been awarded The Cosmodyne Corporation, Torrance.

It will be built for Procon Inc. and Japan Gasoline Co., a joint venture who have a contract to build a 4-million ton LNG plant in the State of Brunei on the Island of Borneo.

The Procon-Japan Gasoline Co. portion of the total project is over $100 million, and is for Brunei LNG Ltd., a company owned by the Royal Dutch Shell Group, the Mitsubishi Group Japan, and the Brunei Government.

A DALE STUARD DEVELOPMENT

NO KID STUFF

Bubble blowing isn't kid stuff to this Goodyear research engineer. Bubbles he blows may result in improved packaging film or magnetic tape. Using an air-driven extruder instead of his own breath, he blows large bubbles of experimental film at Goodyear Research Center in Akron, Ohio. Film then is slit into sheets for tests as to strength, cling and clarity.

Color Theme Should Start With Roof

You too can become an "exterior decorator." It's easy.

Almost everyone, whether he is a homeowner or apartment dweller, indulges in a certain amount of interior decorating: choosing room colors, selecting carpet, arranging furniture and picking out accessories.

But decorating the exterior of your home can be even more critical, because your house is out there in the open for everyone to see. Unfortunately, many homeowners stumble badly when it comes to exterior decorating.

For many people "exterior decorating" is limited to selecting colors for the exterior sidewalls and trim. Even if they make a wise selection of colors, some homeowners make the mistake of using color to emphasize a home's architectural defects rather than its strong points — such as painting an ugly drain pipe with a bright trim color.

A COMMON mistake is to overlook the roof in considering the overall exterior appearance of a building. Actually, good exterior design starts with the roof. It is the largest exterior expanse and should set the tone for the rest of the decorating scheme.

There is a wide range of roof colors from which to choose. Asphalt shingles are available in "earth" and "forest" tones, pastels and an unlimited variety

Robertshaw Buildings in Construction

Tri-Cor, Inc. of Long Beach, has been awarded a $400,000 contract for construction of two buildings totaling 60,000 square feet for Robertshaw Controls Co., 100 W. Victoria, Long Beach.

Work has begun at the company site and is scheduled for completion Aug. 10, according to Tri-Cor sales manager Bill Hynes.

One 36,000-square-foot building will be used for manufacturing service purposes while the other 24,000 square foot building is designed for warehouse needs. They are combination tilt-up concrete and Pascoe Steel structures.

The manufacturing facility measures 200x180 ft. Dimensions of the warehouse building are 240x100 ft.

Tri-Cor, headed by president Bob Slatton, is a builder of Pascoe steel structures in addition to projects utilizing other forms of construction.

No Cathedral Ceilings at Rancho Mesa Homes

While many builders and salesmen talk about the beauty of "cathedral ceilings," most housewives will agree that these builders and salesmen do not have to clean house or pay utility bills.

"It's a fact that higher ceilings — The cathedral ceilings — are more difficult to clean and the heating bills do run higher for this type of homes in the winter," said Eric Hertle, marketing manager for Rancho Mesa, a new community in Fountain Valley built by Schmid Development, Inc.

"Not only does it cost more to heat, but it is also more difficult to cool in the summer, with all the hot air being trapped," Hertle added.

"Not that I don't think they are nice — but a cathedral or a castle is the best place for them. These difficult-to-maintain ceilings do not belong in a busy family's home," Hertle said.

RANCHO Mesa, which offers homes in either three or four bedroom models, are ideal for young on-the-go families, who want to enjoy their homes and the good life of Southern California.

"First of all, these buyers do not have to worry about moving in. The purchase price of the homes include carpets, drapes, complete rear yard fencing, front lawns, trees and sprinkler systems," the marketing manager said.

Priced from $28,950 to $30,950 with VA and FHA terms available, Rancho Mesa Homes have exteriors which belie their price.

"I would say we have some of the finest looking homes in Southern California today," noted Lou Schmid, president of the company which bears his name.

The location of these Fountain Valley homes is also perfect for every member of the family.

Located less than a minute from the Brookhurst off-ramp of the San Diego Freeway, commuters need not fight surface street traffic coming or going to work.

Edlin Weingarten, formerly with Larwin Company, has been named vice president-director of corporate marketing for Wm. Lyon Development Company, Inc., a newly created position.

Wall Street Briefs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Marketing cigarettes with out the aid of broadcast advertising will not pose too many difficulties, George Weissman, president of Philip Morris, told the New York Security Analysts. Weissman also said Philip Morris' international sales of cigarettes presently are its fastest growing operation, up 14.2 per cent for the first quarter of the year while the company's total cigarette sales were up about 3 per cent.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — North American Rockwell Corp.'s California Division has obtained a $29.4 million three-year contract from the National Aeronautics & Space Administration for support operations in the second stage of the Saturn rocket program.

AKRON (UPI) — Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s aerospace unit has obtained a $21 million Air Force order for an improved version of its side-viewing airborne radar system.

BOSTON (UPI) — Mr. Donut, Inc., has arranged with Duskin, Ltd., of Osaka, Japan, to franchise 100 Mr. Donut shops in Japan. Duskin will open pilot shops in Osaka and Tokyo itself, then franchise the remaining shops.

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Lear Siegler, Inc., has obtained a $9.7 million contract from Data Input Devices, Inc., of Derry, N.H., to make digital encoders for commercial data processing systems. The encoders eliminate a substantial number of manual keypunch operations.

PERTH AMBOY, N.J. (UPI) — Anaconda Co. announced it will spend $4.5 million to rebuild its Perth Amboy electrolytic copper refinery.

MANSFIELD, Ohio (UPI) — Ohio Brass Co. says it will permanently close its strike bound plant here following rejection by United Auto Workers of the company's latest offer. The plant employs 226. The company offered a 60 cents an hour increase package spread over two years. The union asked for 90 cents.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Western Union Corp. has formed a new subsidiary to handle its real estate activities, Vice President G. A. Hoyt told Dallas security analysts. The new subsidiary will build a data processing center in Dallas, a new Western Union headquarters at Saddle Brook, N.J., and a computerized communications center at Middletown, Va.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Combustion Engineering Corp. said it has obtained a $50 million contract to provide two 500 mega watt coal fired steam generators for a joint venture of Pacific Power & Light Co. and Idaho Power Co., at the Jim Bridger Steam Plant east of Rock Springs, Wyo. The units will be put in operation in 1974 and 1975.

Grumman Gets Lunar Roving Vehicle Contract

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has awarded Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation a $400,000 eight-month contract to study a Dual Mode Lunar Roving Vehicle (DLRV).

The DLRV, considered for use this year, could provide American astronauts with transportation on the moon's surface or operate unmanned by remote control from earth.

A vehicle similar to the DLRV developed earlier by Grumman has undergone initial testing to determine the degree of mobility needed for operations on the moon.

A vehicle of this type would increase by 100-fold the area a lunar astronaut could cover.

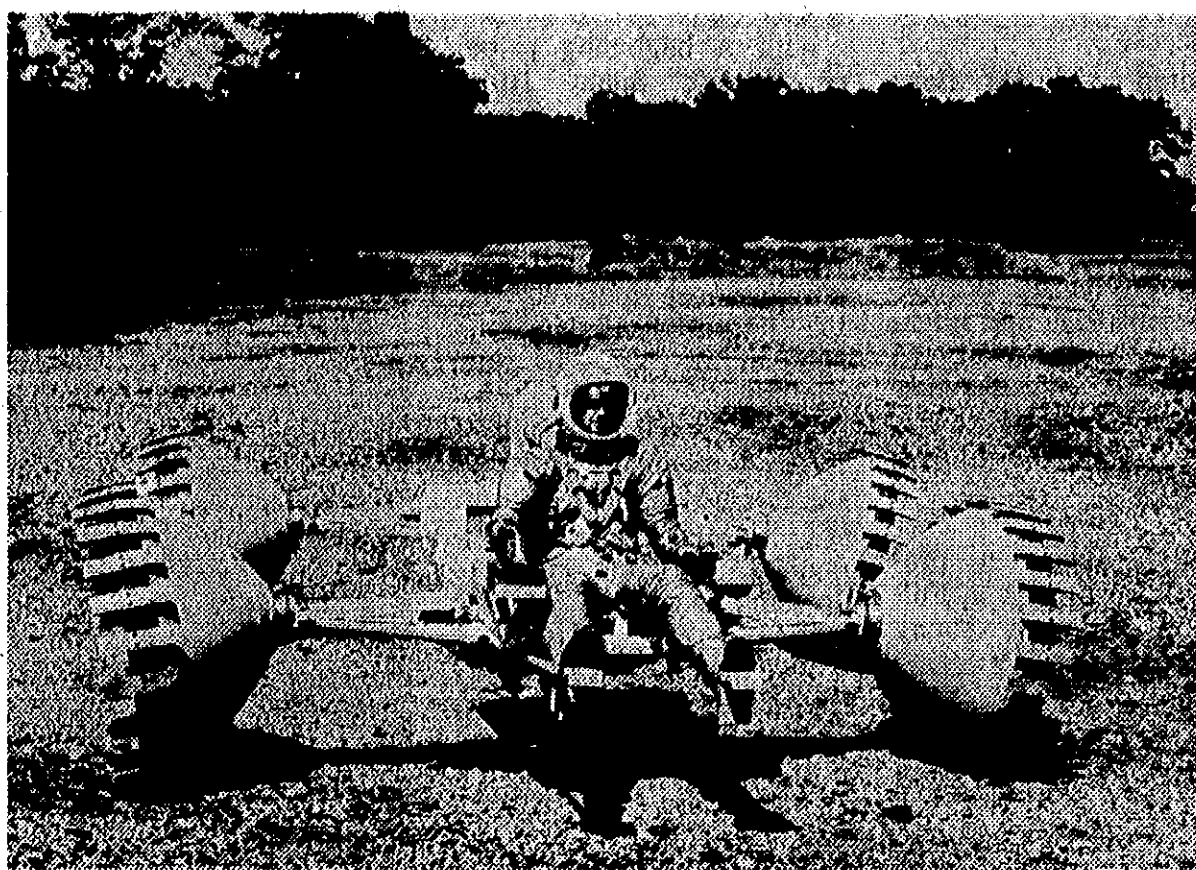

THE DLRV would be stowed in the descent (lower) stage of the Apollo Lunar Module (LM) — also developed by Grumman — the spacecraft which will land American astronauts on the moon and start them on their return trip to earth.

A variety of missions are anticipated for the DLRV. On its initial moon trip it would carry up to 100 pounds of scientific equipment and an astronaut over its operational range.

THE DLRV design will be compatible with the Apollo Lunar Module and is not dependent on the development of new delivery systems.

LM delivery systems having higher payloads would enhance the scientific and mission capabilities of the DLRV.

The program will be administered by NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala. The Grumman study is one of two identical efforts being conducted for NASA.

Medevco Appoints Colucci to GM Post

John T. Colucci, Southern California hospital management consultant and executive, has been appointed general manager of operations for Medevco, Long Beach-based owner and developer of convalescent hospitals.

William C. Kalepp, president of the publicly held company, said Colucci will direct the operations of Signal Hill Convalescent Home, Compton Convalescent Hospital, Long Beach Intercommunity Sanitarium and Willow Lake Convalescent Hospital as well as other health care units.

JON COLUCCI

planned or now under construction in Las Vegas, Pacoima, San Dimas and Morro Bay.

IN HIS new position, Colucci will set up uniform standards for all hospitals and establish criteria for new acquisitions.

All Medevco hospital administrators will be under his jurisdiction.

Born in Yugoslavia, Colucci spent his early years in Montreal and was graduated in 1939 from McGill University with a BA in Business Administration.

During the war years he served as a counter agent with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, using the role of management consultant as a cover.

HE FOUND the field so interesting he continued in this capacity, specializing in hotels, restaurants and hospitals.

Colucci came to California in 1959 and served as general manager of Convalescent Homes of America, Beverly Hills, as executive director of the Sanitarium Association of California, Los Angeles, and president of Eldercare Centers, Orange.

Formerly a resident of Yorba Linda, the new Medevco official and his wife, Veronica, reside in Corona Del Mar.

Goodyear Is Suing 2 Firms

Lawsuits charging tire retailers in Muncie, Ind., and Charleston, S. C., with infringing The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company's Polyglas trademark have been filed by the company.

One suit, filed in Federal District Court in Indianapolis, is against Nayco, Inc., of Muncie. It charges that the term "Poly-E-Glass" used by Naaco in the advertising and sale of its tires constitutes a trademark infringement.

The second suit, filed in Federal Court in Charleston, is against Public Wholesale Tire Outlet.

Goodyear charges that the arrangement of the words "POLYester" and "fiberGLASS" used by this retailer in its advertising is so deceptively similar to the Polyglas trademark that the public is likely to mistakenly believe that the tires so advertised are Goodyear's Polyglas brand tires.

Philip J. Levin, the New Jersey real estate operator, has sued Reclon Corp., the former Parvin-Dohrmann Corp., to void actions taken at its April 28 annual meeting. Levin wants to call a new annual meeting with new solicitation of proxies. Levin, who owns about 9 per cent of the company, failed in a bid to get the courts to delay the April 28 meeting. Federal Judge Edmund Palmieri ordered the company to show cause on May 28 why Levin's request should not be granted.

Wm. Lyon Homes Found in Six Desirable Locations

To many homebuyers, the atmosphere around a home is just as important as the home itself.

With this in mind, the Wm. Lyon Development Company points to the desirable locations of six new home communities in Orange County.

Five are in the popular, ocean-oriented Huntington Beach area, and one in the hills of Fullerton. Each is designed to appeal to a particular segment of the new home market.

Wm. Lyon Development Company, the world-wide real estate subsidiary of American Standard Inc., built the California Classics, near Meadowlark Golf Club at 5931 Brannen Drive in Huntington Beach, for the young junior-executive family.

"House & Home" Magazine recently selected these homes to receive a special "award of Merit" for outstanding residential design and construction.

CALIFORNIA Classics offer two to five-bedroom plans and include the "Terrace Kitchen," dazzling bright with its walls of glass, and applauded for its "wife-saving" built-in appliances.

Also included are some extras Lyon includes in the purchase price: fireplace, carpeting (living room), hall, master bedroom, sloped ceilings, drapes (except kitchen, bath), rear lot line fencing and front yard landscaping plus sprinklers.

Prices begin at $24,990. VA-SHA and Conventional terms are available, with immediate occupancy.

ALREADY referred to as "one of the finest executive areas" Huntington Shores is also open for immediate occupancy.

Designed especially for growing families, these 1 story homes have 3 and 4 bedrooms — and surprisingly low price tags starting at $26,490 with VA-FHA and Conventional financing.

Again, the all-glass "Terrace Kitchen" is featured in most of the homes, with range, double oven, dishwasher, disposal.

The extras are a constant delight to homebuyers who want to move in and "start living."

All the following items are included in the price: custom fireplace, carpeting in three areas, dramatic up-swinging ceilings, draperies (except kitchen, bath), rear lot line fencing, front yard landscaping plus sprinklers.

Near the proposed central city park, the address is 17691 Edwards Avenue.

FRANCISCAN Fountains

By The Sea, according to Lyon, is luxury down to the last detail.

All the elegance of the original Franciscan Fountains has been captured — but in addition, residents are just a short walk from the beach.

Much architectural excitement goes on in these one and two-story homes, but the feature most commented on is the "Parent Saver Retreat," a hideaway adult apartment completely contained in the master bedroom suite.

The "Terrace Kitchen" is also featured here, and is fitted with a group of built-in appliances calculated to make "the cook's" work easy.

One 2-story model has a majestic curved staircase; four and five-bedrooms are offered in these big family homes, with prices beginning at $33,490.

Terms include VA-FHA and Conventional.

Edison Completes Refund Program

Southern California Edison Company has now virtually completed passing along $8.1 million in refunds to its customers resulting from lowered prices for natural gas Edison uses as fuel for producing electricity, District Manager H. G. Hanawalt announced.

The refunds, received from local gas distributors and stemming largely from a Federal Power Commission rate case decision involving gas prices in the Permian Basin of West Texas, have been paid as credits on most customers' electric service bills, Hanawalt said.

PROMOTED
Richard Lyndon, Long Beach, who joined telecommunications department of Union Bank last year, has been promoted to assistant vice president in cashier's division.

can be seen at 6742 Slater Ave., in Huntington Beach and is one of Lyon's most successful executive home series.

Prices begin at $30,990 and two additional floor plans are now available.

A new series of contemporary homes can be found almost across the street from Franciscan Fountains.

Called "Belmeadow," these striking homes have an unusual number of elevations and floor plans, ranging from two to six bedrooms with up to three baths.

Families lucky enough to own three cars will appreciate the three-car garages. The same "Terrace Kitchen" found in the homes already mentioned, is also a center of attraction at "Belmeadow."

Almost entirely glassin, homebuyers are enthusiastic about the brightness of the "cook's headquarters," and the convenience afforded by all the built-in appliances.

Located at 6532 Cory Drive, Belmeadow homes have a starting price of $25,990 and include all Lyon extras such as carpeting (living room, hall, master bedroom), draperies (except bath and kitchen), fireplaces, frontyard landscaping, rear lot line fencing, choice of VA-FHA and Conventional financing.

ACROSS from a proposed 17-acre park in Fullerton's exclusive Sunny Hills area is Lyon's Sunny Hills West.

For the executive family that has "arrived" these homes offer sumptuous living at its best. Seen from the windows here are magnificent mountain views, scenic park views or city lights below.

With a beginning price of $36,990, Sunny Hills homes offer three to seven bedrooms in one and two-story split-level plans with conventional terms.

Most daring of all the architectural features, is the "Sun House" kitchen, octagonally shaped and all-glass.

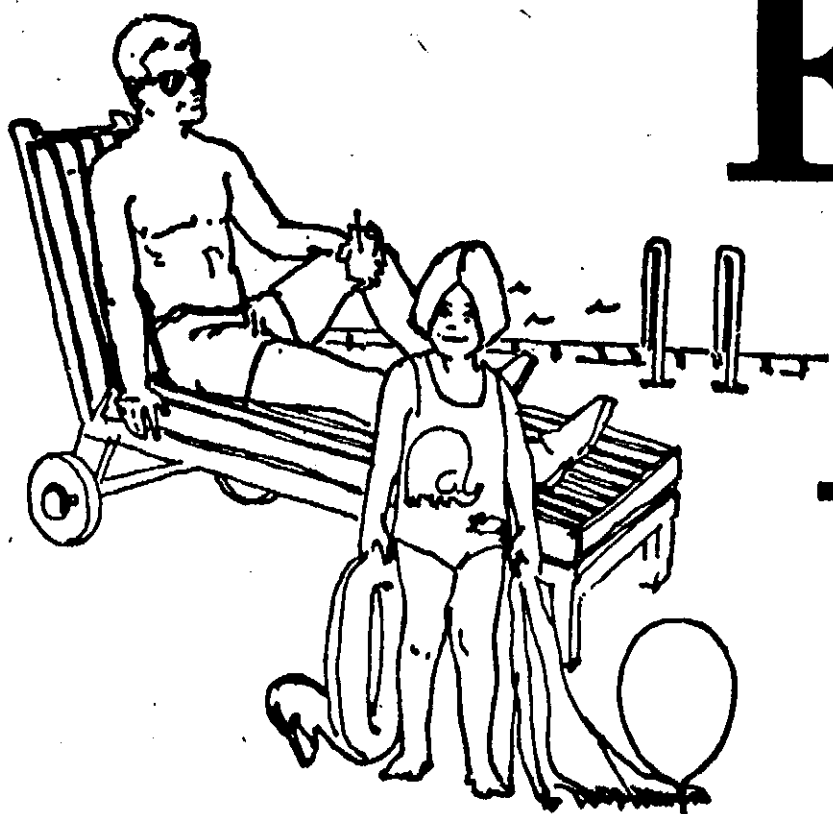

The "Presidential Suite" is another unique feature — glamor bedroom suite with highflying ceiling, double walk-in closets, dressing room and "patio" bath.

The models are reached by taking Euclid Avenue north to Rosecrans then west to the site.

Larwin Builds in North

The Larwin Company, one of the nation's largest housing producers, has announced plans to build residential communities in Northern California.

A minimum of three communities in the northern part of the state are planned for this year, with the first already under construction in San Jose, said Michael L. Tenzer, senior vice president and director of marketing.

Larwin, based in Beverly Hills, has developed 48 communities with a total of more than 26,000 homes in the Greater Los Angeles area.

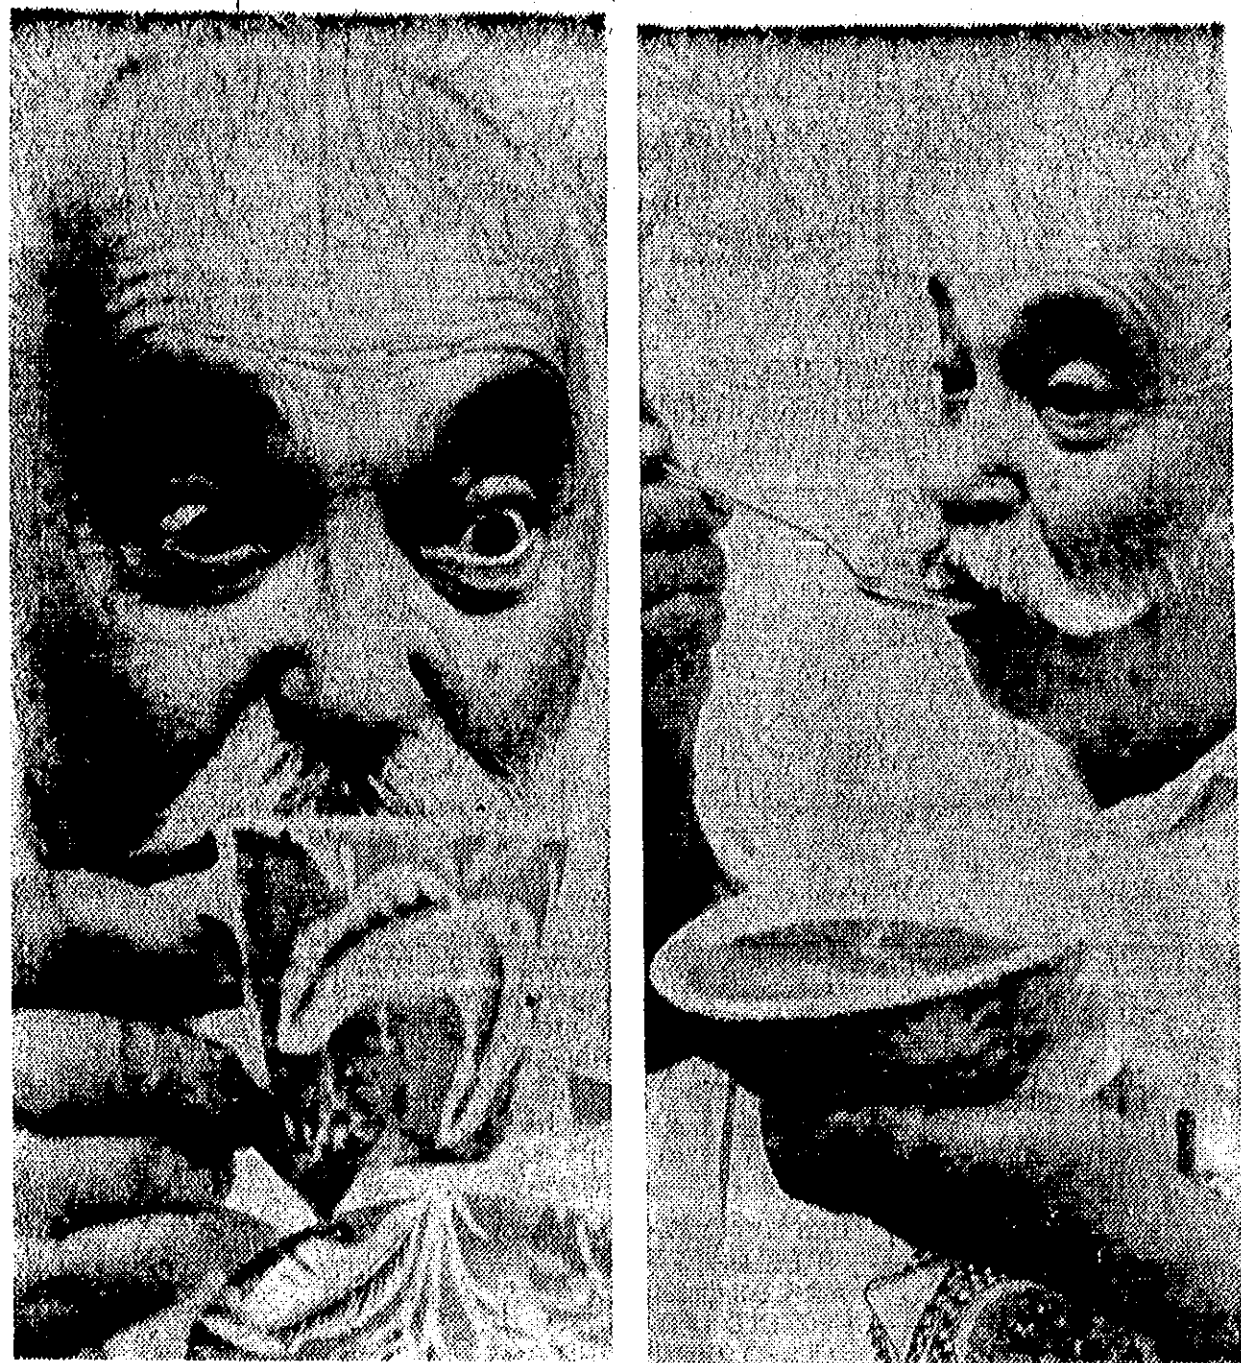

THE Northern California communities represent a major step in Larwin's expansion program, which also includes current housing developments in San Diego and Chicago, Tenzer said.

A new subsidiary, Larwin-Northern California, Inc., will direct development of the northern communities from its Walnut Creek headquarters.

San Jose was selected as the first site following 18 months of intensive market research, Tenzer said.

Don't Call for Moustache Cup

DOMINICK SARDISCO SHOWS HOW TO DINE THROUGH FOLIAGE
Restaurant Owner Has Utter Disdain for Moustache Cups

STORY AND PHOTOS
By DICK EMERY

Just by the way, here are some suggestions on how moustaches — lately in vogue — can be kept out of the coffee, the soup, etc.

The suggestions come from a 60-year-old Sicily-born longtime resident of San Pedro who owns Italian restaurants in Wilmington and Torrance. No novice wearer of the walrus, he!

"I started growing mine for the Wilmington Centennial in 1958," said Dominick Sardisco. "From time to time it has been trimmed, now that I'm growing sideburns, too."

Present spread of his moustache, he said, is 10½ inches.

He scoffed at the current trend toward the use of moustache cups. Such cups, popular in the 1890s and now antiques, have a little built-in baffle which bars the handlebars from the coffee.

"Tell men who have moustaches," the expressive chef said in his Wilmington restaurant at 24209 South Avalon Blvd., "that they don't need moustache cups."

"I will show how, with the coffee. Just bend the head forward a little, to sip."

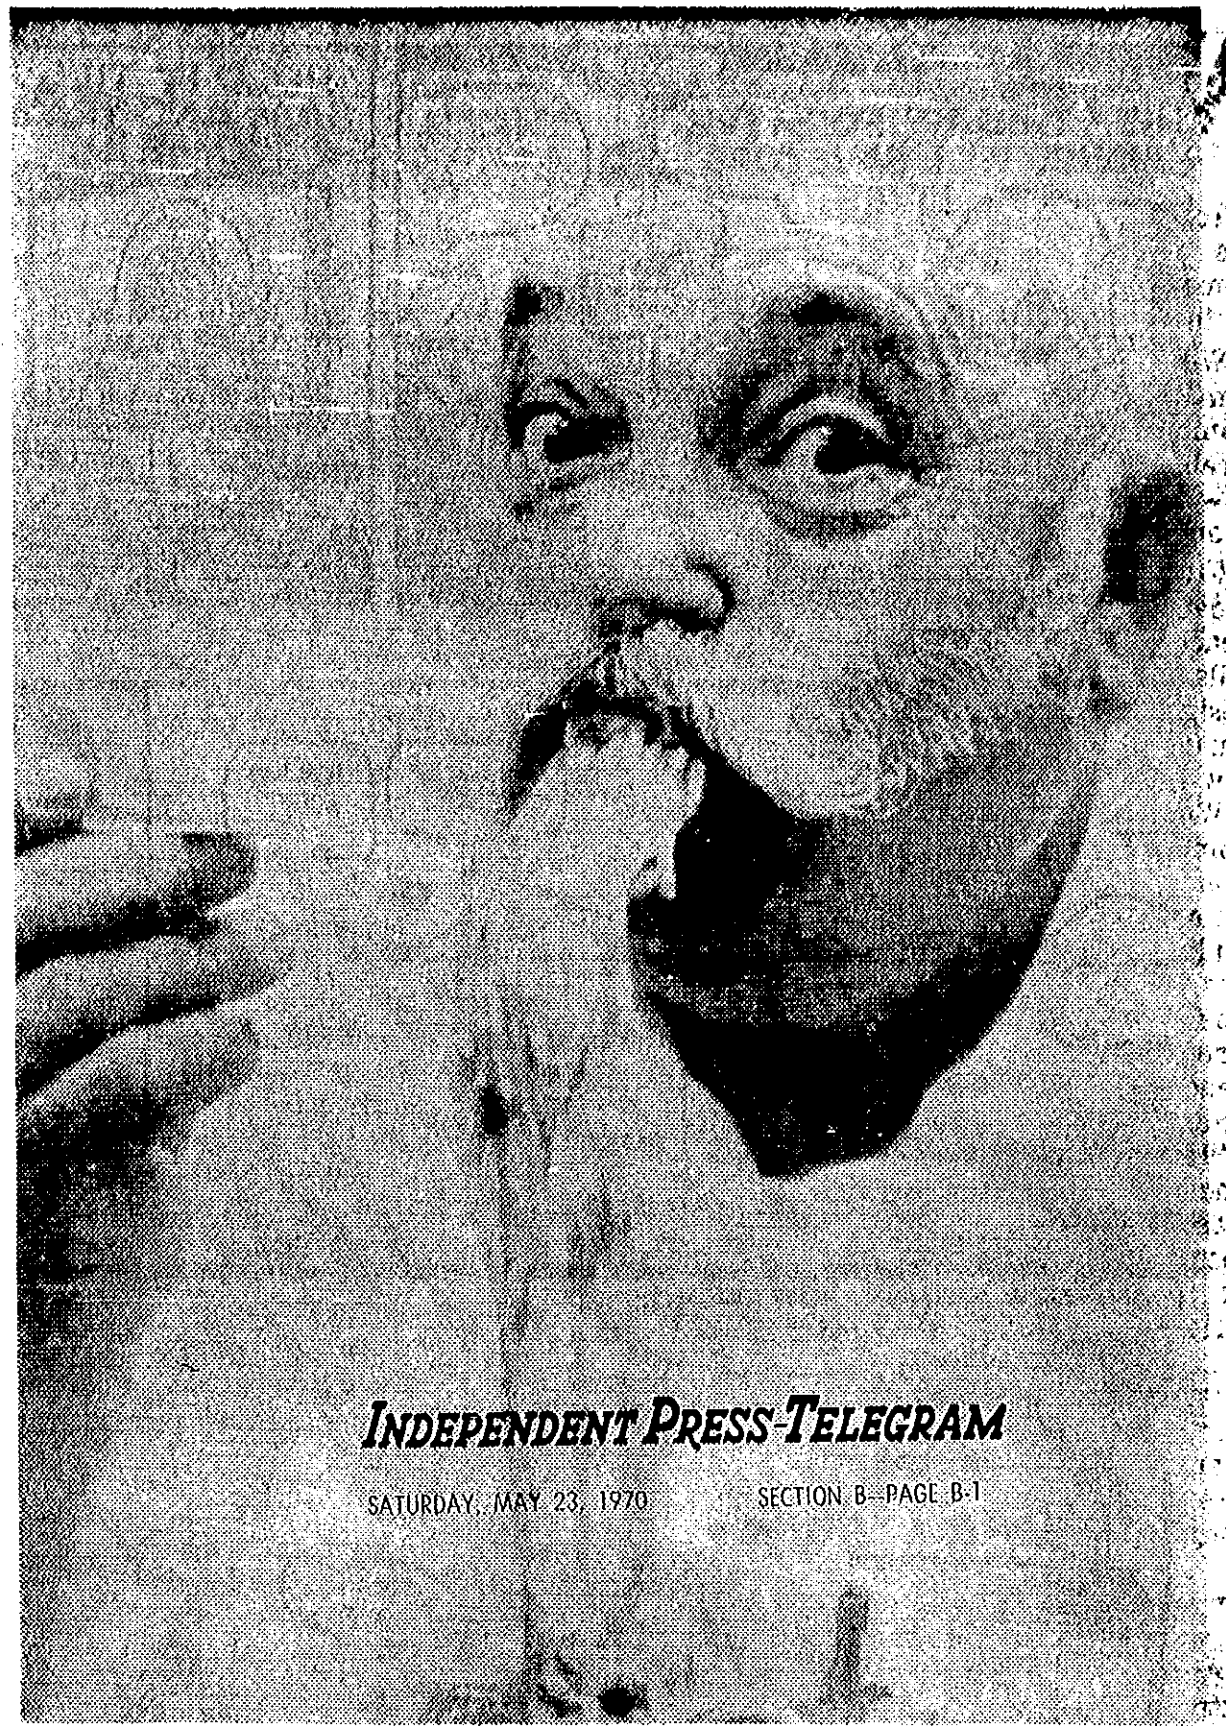

SPAGHETTI — NOW THERE'S a real challenge! The best way is to roll the spaghetti on a fork and bend the head forward.

"Soup's easy! Get close to the bowl. Reach for the spoon a little with your lips."

"Wine? A lot of guys wax their moustache so nothing will stain it. But if a fellow's careful, holding the glass lightly and sipping properly, his moustache won't dip in at all!"

Sardisco's younger son, Dominick Jr., 26, runs the Wilmington restaurant. An older son, Frank, 33, runs the Torrance "Dominick's."

A little foresight by walrus wearers, Sardisco said, saves many a drip on the tie or tablecloth. But to ask for a moustache cup at any present-day restaurant? "Unthinkable!" he said.

Radical Defeated in CSLB Election

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

A deputy administrator in the present Associated Students government at California State College at Long Beach beat a radical challenger in a runoff election for student body president, vote tallies showed Friday.

Ric Opalka, who advocates bringing change through the existing political system, won a 4,078 to 2,706 victory over Jerry Harris of the Oct. 24 Coalition.

Opalka's campaign workers believe that a backlash to campus strike activities helped put their candidate in office.

IN THE vice presidential race, Student Senator Vince Rinehart defeated Sharon Simpson of the Peace and Freedom Party by a narrower margin, 3,814 to 3,054.

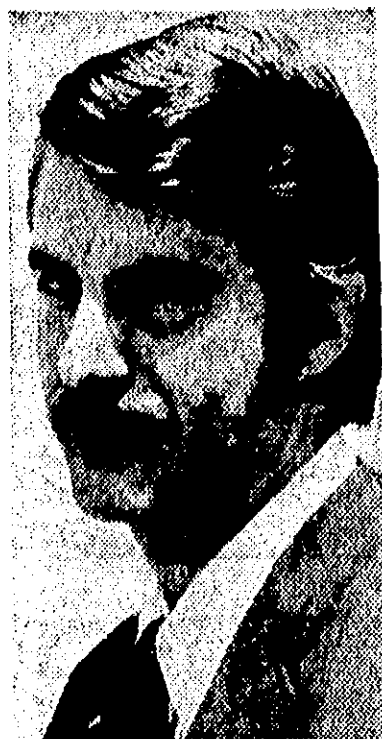

Opalka and Miss Simpson received the most votes in a general student body election last month, but the vote count was close and election procedures were disputed.

After two weeks of controversy, a new election was called.

"I'm glad a runoff election was held," Opalka said Friday. "If I'd taken office on the basis of the first election, I wouldn't have felt I had a clear mandate."

RIC OPALKA

During the week-long election campaign, Harris attacked college athletic director Fred Miller for issuing a statement urging support for Opalka and Rinehart. Faculty members shouldn't participate in student elections, Harris said.

Miller said he didn't see anything unethical about the endorsement, adding, "As a member of the college community, I am affected by the student elections, and concerned."

Opalka listed his objectives as:

—Creation of an inter-school program leading to a degree in ecology.

—Restructuring the student senate "along more representative lines."

—Developing a community relations program.

—Increasing student representation on college committees.

—Statewide lobbying for student interests.

Opalka and Rinehart take office Monday.

Air California Officials Quit

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

Three top executives of Air California have resigned in the wake of canceled plans to merge the Orange County-based intrastate carrier with Pacific Southwest Airlines.

Resignations were tendered by Carl A. Benscoter, president; Robert E. Soulerin, treasurer, and Norris Webb, general counsel.

PSA called off its plans to acquire Air California earlier this week, after hearings before the California Public Utilities Commission had dragged on longer than expected.

PSA President J. Floyd Andrews of San Diego said too many requirements for the merger had fallen by the way, making it economically unattractive.

No official reason was given for the three resignations. Dissension among Air California executives over the proposed merger had been reported earlier.

AIR CALIFORNIA, HEADQUARTERED in Newport Beach adjacent to Orange County Airport, was formed in 1966 and flies between Orange County, Ontario and Palm Springs in Southern California and San Francisco Bay Area airports in the north.

PSA covers the same routes with the exception of Orange County and also serves San Diego and Sacramento. Both airlines have been granted Long Beach rights by the PUC, but have been unable to gain official approval from the city.

Present operating head of Air California is Robert W. Clifford, named vice president and general manager. He was formerly vice president for operations.

Clifford and Board Chairman N. Loyall McLaren, who is also president of the Irvine Foundation, expressed confidence that the airline would continue progress toward a profitable operation now that merger talks had ceased.

AIR CALIFORNIA HAS NOT REPORTED a single profitable quarter, although it has operated in some months out of the red. Stockholders objecting to the merger during the PUC hearings said the airline was on a better financial footing than appeared in the books.

Union employee groups also protested the merger, stating that they preferred to work for Air California as an independent carrier.

Clifford noted the employees' company spirit in a formal announcement of the management changes.

During the merger talks, company loyalty and enthusiasm reached a new high, he said. "This kind of spirit . . . will keep Air California very much alive."

DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT

Planners Slate Gruen Hearing

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

The official public hearing by the Planning Commission on changes in the general plan for downtown Long Beach, as recommended by Gruen Associates, will be held at 9 a.m. Thursday in City Hall.

Changes approved by the Planning Commission subsequently will be forwarded to the City Council, which will hold its own public hearing on the proposals, probably in June.

About 18 months ago, the City Council hired Gruen Associates, an urban planning firm, and Development Research Associates, urban economists, to undertake a study of downtown Long Beach.

The study covered the area bounded by the shoreline, Los Angeles River, Alamitos Avenue and the proposed Pacific Coast Freeway route, just south of Anaheim Street.

"THE PURPOSE OF THE STUDY," explained Planning Director Ernest Mayer Jr., "was to measure the city's potential to rebuild and revitalize downtown Long Beach, to analyze the obstacles that might minimize that potential, and then to design the plans and programs necessary to do the job."

Gruen Associates and Development Research Associates completed their study about three months ago and submitted it to the City Council and Planning Commission at a joint meeting.

Since that time, Mayer said, the plans and proposals for the downtown area have been presented to more than 50 community organizations "in an effort to give such plans wide public exposure."

The Long Beach Chamber of Commerce and Downtown Long Beach Associates subsequently endorsed the Gruen recommendations, and urged their prompt implementation.

In the reports to citizen groups, city planners and officials of the two consulting firms emphasized that the downtown development plan is intended to present general concepts for the area involved, not zoning plans for specific parcels of land.

Highlights of the recommendations are a proposed 28-block business core, featuring a regional shopping center of one million square feet; three major residential neighborhoods, in which some streets would be closed to restrict through traffic and provide small parks and recreation areas; services areas adjacent to the residential neighborhoods to provide "convenience" shopping, and development of the Civic Center as a civic park.

The plan is aimed at a 15-year period, and contemplates private investment during that period of some $400 million for such improvements as four new department stores and new office buildings.

"The adoption of this plan and its widespread public support could trigger a wave of new development that will alter the quality of life in Long Beach for generations to come," Mayer said.

HE SAID IT OFFERS "the opportunity to re-think the big questions of retail sales volume competition, tax revenues, traffic circulation, and the kind of downtown environment that would be most attractive and convenient for our shoppers and other citizens."

Mayer said the Gruen recommendations constitute the first stage of a three-stage program to upgrade the entire city. Stage two is under way with the start of the Community Analysis Program, and stage three, which will consist of updating the general plan and shoreline plan, is expected to be undertaken in the latter part of 1970 or early 1971, he said.

TAMBURAS AT PORTS O' CALL

Yugoslavs Arrange Banquet

The music of Yugoslav tamburas will be heard across Los Angeles Harbor Sunday as the Slavic Council, formed to keep alive cultural traditions and languages of Slavic peoples in the United States, stages its fourth annual Meet the People banquet.

The affair, headed by council founder Andrew Mardesich, to be held at the Ports O'Call, will precede the pilgrimage of almost 200 Yugoslavs to the country of their birth next month.

"I'm planning to take some perch and sardines caught off the coast of Southern California," Mardesich says. "To Komiza, the small Adriatic island from where the forefathers of many San Pedrans migrated. We will barbecue the fish next day at a party in Komiza to show that the distance between our two countries is very small."

Highlight of the Sunday banquet will be the selection of a Slavic queen whose only prerequisite is that she be of Slavic descent.

More than 28,000 Slavs live in San Pedro, Mardesich points out, and "we want to strengthen the ties between them and the people still in Yugoslavia."

Adm. Longino Takes Over Antisub Warfare Group 3

Rear Adm. James C. Longino relieved Rear Adm. Norman C. Gillette Jr. Friday as commander of Antisubmarine Warfare Group 3 in ceremonies Friday aboard the USS Ticonderoga at the Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

Adm. Longino had served as commander of Fleet Air San Diego since last September.

Adm. Gillette's new assignment takes him to Washington, D.C., where he will serve under the secretary of the Navy as director of the newly created Naval Disability Agency.

The antisub warfare group, including its flagship, the Ticonderoga, will be transferred to San Diego July 1.

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today! A fresh phase of your life begins now with some changes of habit and perhaps change of your work from one-to-a-line complex tasks to simpler and larger scale moves. Your future slowly but surely a broader perspective based on expanding opportunity for better information, more time for study, deeper understanding.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Special activities make it possible to meet people who happen, in the future to be important contacts for business and career promotions.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Now while there's no particular difference of opinion alive, get straightened out with distant relatives, in-laws and others who might interfere later.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Much of your future welfare is affected by positive interventions and ideas that come to you today.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): Without being irrational or onerous, put to good use the attention of your friends and close associates. Take time out for meditation in the afternoon.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 22): Everybody has something that requires your attention or opinion. Get up early and work through the day mending neglected relationships or making amends for past shortcomings.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): There is still some routine to cover, but in general you are free to do pretty much as you want, within reason.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): First take your part in habitual Sunday customs. Then welcome visitors who are full of news and valuable information as well as good, congenial human communion, review and replanning.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your money matters to escape your wallet today for any number of tempting novelties, new equipment, amenities, lavish hospitality. Aside from the task of controlling this tendency, enjoy a good time with your friends and family.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Conserve your health and strength through moderate habits. Set some time aside to be alone for solitary self-appraisal, meditation, prayer. Later your accounts and budgets can stand review and replanning.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Do your share in the community expression of faith. Visit friends and neighbors to see how they are doing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): This Sunday is favorable for planning welfare activities, charitable enterprises, organizing groups for public benefits.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Friendships are very important (as now) an interesting little incident will reveal how comforting it is to have other people to depend on. Make the effort to find out more of what is happening in your community.

GARDENING

* * * * *

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

In the good old days when life was lived at a slower pace, and courtesy and chivalry were accepted parts of daily living, flowers were used to express sentiments such as love, grief, appreciation, desire, and gratitude.

In the language of the flowers, Chrysanthemum, to the Japanese, expressed "Long Life and Happiness." It is the "Flower of September," and "Kikumon" Imperial Crest of Japan.

The Chrysanthemum, to the Chinese, expressed "Rest and Ease," is the "Flower of October," and was the Badge of the Old Chinese Army.

It is considered the Flower of November, and has expressed "Cheerfulness and Optimism" in the Occident.

Whatever the Chrysanthemum might mean to you, such fall-flowering plants are most welcome in sunny flower gardens and small garden areas. They are very desirable as container plants when in bloom and may be sunk into the garden soil where color is needed.

CHRYSA N T H E - mums, nicknamed "mum," should be planted now for that needed color in late summer and fall. Be sure to select varieties that don't all bloom at once. You'll stretch the blooming season from mid-September through the rest of the year in this way, and the latest blooming varieties will lap over into the early part of next year. You'll have flowers continuously. Don't plant the late varieties if earlier frosts visit your garden areas. Pinch off the branch tips to force more branch growth. Do it several times, after 2 to 3 pairs of leaves have developed.

There's one mum that is different from the mums we discussed. It is the "Primavera" mum, a perennial like the other mums. Of all the mums we know only primavera provides two crops of lovely pompon-like bright yellow flowers the same year. It is a cushion form of mum. It grows about foot or so tall and spreads out as much as 18 inches. The gardener should cut back the first blooms well into the secondary branch growth after they fade. It should be fed a balanced plant food and watered well as it thirsts. It is an excellent mum to grow in a container.

Normal watering isn't sufficient for the forced plants, because four or five plants are jammed tightly in a rather small pot and the pot is crammed full of thirsty roots. The only way to slake the roots' thirst is to dunk the pot in a bucket of water. Pot is taken out when the bubbling stops. The pot is put back in place after excess water has drained out.

Such soaking thoroughly waters the roots and prolongs the freshness of the blossoms!

Water Deeply

Water the garden deeply. After watering, dig down and see if you have done a good job.

Q. — I've saved a column you wrote about clivias. I have four of them. What can I do to make mine look lovely? Mrs. K.R.

A. — Clivias are not succulents but belong to the amaryllis family. You can grow them in the shade garden or where they get several hours of early morning or late afternoon sun. Dig up each large clump with a strong spading fork or a shovel. Knock off as much soil as you can. Separate the individual plants within the clump. If it is not practical then divide the clump into four portions, using a straight edge shovel as a strong cutting tool. Carefully cut back any damaged roots. Mix bone meal and organic mulch material through the soil area in the hole and plant the individual plants or clump sections. Water deeply and well. Keep moist a few days, then water well as needed. Six weeks later feed the transplanted clivias a 6-10-4 fertilizer but lightly, and repeat again in another month to six weeks. Schefflera is a good tropical effect tree to plant. I haven't heard of its roots being "bad rooters." Nor have I noticed that the Schefflera flowers are messy as are some blooming kinds of trees. Personally I don't think flowers are messy but I know how swimming-pool owners have problems with certain types of blossoms from trees and shrubs.

FOR PACIFIC CHRISTIAN Adults, Campus Youth Got Along Just Fine

There were 1,110 persons at a dinner at Disneyland Hotel Monday night, and that was probably a record turnout for this area in behalf of Christian higher education.

It was the spring dinner of Pacific Christian College of Long Beach, which has embarked on a long range development program under President Medford H. Jones, who came to the Anaheim Street facility last November.

"I won't generalize about the generation gap," said G.B. Gordon, the college's vice president in charge of development, "but what we saw Monday showed that communication between youth and adults is very possible on mutual enterprises."

YOUNG MEN and women of the PCC campus were receptionists, hosts, and hostesses. They were scattered around the tables with the guests, infusing the affair with their concern and enthusiasm.

An original song, "Where Are We Going?" was sung by a PCC coed, accompanied by another on the guitar. The choir presented another new song, "It's Up to Us," expressing in musical form the acceptance of responsibility for the nation, the church, the future. The president of the student body gave the invocation, and next year's president the benediction.

Among the laymen at the affair were such people as the vice president of Air California, the owner of a large mobile home business, and a chairman of the Newberry firm.

THE COLLEGE, thriving and successful in its mission, to turn out young men and women challenged to serve in the Christian spirit, like all private institutions is not unaffected by rising costs. With the addition of outstanding new faculty, a remodeling program and turning of more resources into recruitment, it needs the participation of concerned citizens in its work, those who regard it as an investment in the future.

In April, there was a get together at Knotts Berry Farm, and an action committee of laymen and church people was formed. They in turn invited others to the Monday spring dinner.

A new breadth of lay participation has been achieved. And, reports Gordon, between cash, deposit notes, securities, and BRIEFLY . . .

Requiem for Memorial; Pro, Con on Population

By LES RODNEY

One of Long Beach's distinguished ministers of music, Wallace R. Herrewig of Our Saviour's Lutheran, will conduct the complex, moving Brahms Requiem Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the church at 370 Junipero Ave.

"This great choral work," he informs us, "is selected as a Concert of Memorial on the Sunday before Memorial Day, with the idea of bringing the original meaning of the holiday forward — full dimensioned remembrance of those who have fallen in the wars."

Laura Echeverria and Jean Kuhns will accompany the choir at the organ and piano, and Barney Spencer is baritone soloist. With Herrewig in charge, we can attest to the musicianship. The public is invited.

THE MORMON Church has put itself solidly on record alongside the Roman Catholic Church in denouncing attempts to limit population growth and to ease restrictions against abortion.

It termed these efforts "contrary to the revealed instruction of God." The condemnation came in an editorial in an official church supplement to the Deseret News, which is owned by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Salt Lake City.

It expresses the hope that Mormons "will not be misled by the ridiculous philosophy now being widely advocated that families are to be limited to one, or at most two, children.

"God has commanded us to 'multiply and replenish the earth'," it continues. "At no time has He abrogated that law. If we believe in Him . . . we are to believe also that He is so blind and thoughtless that He will overpopulate this earth? Where is our faith

The editorial goes on to affirm the fundamentalist belief that we are living in a period closely preceding the second coming of Christ, and that "then the earth will be emptied of much of its population because the wicked will be destroyed."

"This earth will not survive long enough in its present state," it says, "to become so overpopulated that we will starve to death."

The editorial took off after a recent speech at Logan, Utah by Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., who said that a continuation of big families "may now be a disaster."

Udall, who has six children, is a Mormon.

ON THE SAME topic, a foremost American geneticist recently told the World Council of Churches' U.S. Conference in the most somber fashion that "the carrying capacity of our planet is clearly visible."

Dr. Theodosius Dobzhansky, of the Rockefeller University in New York, said "the relative affluence enjoyed by people in so-called developed countries cannot be made universal with the 3.5-billion people which the world contains, much less for the at least six billion expected by the year 2,000."

Food production cannot keep up with population at this rate, he stated flatly.

He identified "runaway population growth" and the deterioration of the environment as "the most urgent and unpostponable" problems facing man, and suggested "We need to frame a new ethic of social responsibility in procreation."

MOST PRESENT day Unitarians come from other religious backgrounds, according to a survey cited in Newsday. "Thirty nine per cent," the article reported, "said they had come from Lutheran, Episcopalian or liberal Protestant homes, and 20 per cent said they had come from homes of more conservative Protestant fundamentalist teaching. Five per cent of the members indicated Jewish backgrounds."

QUESTION: Which church leader in a recent book attacked "recent trends in movies, literature, and art toward what I think of as shock obscenity," called for reconsideration of traditional civil libertarian opposition to restraints on pornography, and went on to say: "In our so-called emancipation from our Puritan past I think we've lost our bearings. Many enlightened parents still have inner convictions but are afraid that they don't have a sure basis for teaching them to their children. Some of the children are quite bewildered, as child psychiatrists and school counselors report."

Surprise. It's Dr. Benjamin Spock, in his new book "Decent and Indecent." (He hasn't changed his position on the Vietnam War, which he also rates as indecent and as a cause of "other brutalizing trends") Dr. Spock, incidentally, is an old line New England Episcopalian.

THE CONSERVATIVE evangelical "Christianity Today" in its May 22 issue editorially takes a dim view of Israel's future.

"The Soviets . . . are committing themselves in the Middle East in the same way that we committed ourselves in South-east Asia," the magazine says. "Moreover, there is no doubt that the Arab world, with the direct help of Soviet forces in the military struggle now being waged, will be far too strong for the Israelis to resist forever . . . Nasser has acidly called for the extermination of Israel, and no one should be naive enough to suppose that he is incapable of doing just that if and when the option is open to him."

BIOLA'S NOTED KINGS PLAYERS HERE

"Revolt at the Portals," a comedy-fantasy play which has won plaudits for the Biola College Kings Players in this country and Asia, will be presented Sunday, 7 p.m. in North Long Beach Brethren Church, 6095 Orange Ave. The drama team, shown above, performed in the past two summers to an estimated 250,000 persons in Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong, India, Singapore, Thailand, Guam, Okinawa, The Philippines.

LUTHERAN LEADER ASKS

Does Fear of Communism Harm Work of Christian Evangelism?

By Lutheran Council News Bureau

"Is it possible for us to regard Communists as people rather than only as a national political threat?"

"Do all nations or groups of people regard themselves as a herren-volk, a superior people?"

"Is there still a reservoir of good will for America in the rest of the world?"

These were some of the questions posed in Washington, D.C. by the president of the world's largest Protestant confessional grouping to some 200 Lutheran clergy and laymen holding responsible positions in the federal government.

Addressing the dinner of the Lutheran Council in the USA's Church and National Life Seminar was Dr. Fredrik A. Schlotz of Minneapolis, president of both the Lutheran World Federation and the American Lutheran Church.

After contending that "political boundaries must not be allowed to stand in the way of the Church ministering to people," he observed that while the state must be concerned about security, the Church must be concerned about "people as people."

Regardless of political boundaries, he said, "people are created by God and redeemed by Christ."

"I'm afraid," the head of the 53-million member Lutheran World Federation added, "that we have not always dealt with Communists as people."

Schlotz attributed the failure largely to a fear that Americans have had of Communism. The fear is not only prevalent, he said, but predominantly American. This country's intense fear of Communism, the Lutheran leader suggested, has been a considerable barrier in preventing Christians in the United States from reaching out to those behind the Iron curtain as effectively as they might.

After observing that there is a legitimate sense in which all must be aware of the primary fear of their nation, he stressed that the Christian must always allow his kind of heaven to flow into society "so that fear won't paralyze us and make demons of us at times."

Regarding the herren-volk or "superior people" concept, the international church leader maintained that such a notion dwells in all of us. As far as the United States is concerned, Dr. Schlotz observed that Americans "pretty much around the world today" are marked as people who really think they are "the salt of the earth" and "God's children."

The widely-travelled churchman reported that without question much of the global good will this country once had abroad has been drained away. Although this is largely because of Vietnam, he said, some United States busi-

To paraphrase Shakespeare's Hamlet: "There are more denominations in heaven and earth (at least on earth) Horatio, than are dreamed of."

There are, for example, the Christadelphians. They are both Unitarian and Adventist in their theology. An English immigrant named John Thomas came over in 1844 and joined the Disciples of Christ, but became convinced they were the apostate church predicted by Scripture. He preached primitive Christianity and the groups he organized became the Christadelphians.

Claretian Fiesta

Is THIS Weekend

The Claretian Fathers of Dominguez Seminary will celebrate their annual fiesta today and Sunday at the historic Dominguez Ranch, 18127 S. Alameda St., Compton. It was incorrectly listed for last weekend previously. A pit barbecue and drawings will be on tap, along with free admission to the Ranch House, open only during the fiesta.

Hours are from noon to 9 p.m. today, Sunday from 1 to 9 p.m.

"For it pleased the Father that in him should all fulness dwell," Christianity does not wrongly place the love of Christ above the love of God. God's Word commands us to have no other gods before Him. However, God and Christ are one. Too honor the Son is to pay tribute to the Father. When you deny the Son you likewise reject the Father.

There is no way to reach God in worship or person other than through Jesus Christ. He is God the Father's provided access into Himself. Jesus had to have been God made known to us in the flesh in order for our worship of Him to be glorifying to the Father. Jesus said, "I and my Father are one."

We preach the deity of Christ! Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

CONFIDENT LIVING,
Free Mini-Book
for Parents, Youth

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

The so-called youth-parent problem is so acute that I decided to write a booklet on the subject. Later in this column we will tell you how to obtain a free copy if you want one.

This writer has a high opinion of the great bulk of American youth. It is only a small well-organized minority that causes the violence and I don't go for that at all. Those who perpetrate it are not helping to create a better society, but are like mutineers trying to seize a ship. And everything could go down in the conflict though I, for one, don't believe it will.

The tendency today is to assume that young people and parents must be in conflict, that a lack of understanding exists in the very nature of the case, that there is a big gap between the generations that cannot be bridged. My experience in dealing with family situations over the years shows that such a gap does not need to exist. And where it is found, it endures only because both parties practice rigid hostile attitudes. Where there is an absence of such attitudes, and where patience and caring are uppermost, there is no gap.

ONE OF the best ways for a family to erase a gap, or for that matter prevent its appearing, is to act together as a team. Bring family and business problems to the family team, act on the premise that anything which is important to one is equally important to all. Family discipline is vital, of course, for when a child is not disciplined he is denied a basic heritage. You can count on it that he will be disciplined by the world and it will not be with the kind of love that should exist within the family.

But still and all, parents should be the kind of people that kids can grip with and not about. And shock reaction should never be allowed. One of the chief skills in human relations is to take every person as he is and accept him that way. Don't think you have to remold him into your image.

And it must be remembered that every individual longs to be a person, his own person. Children should let parents be their own persons and accept them for what they are.

Spanish Church to Lime Avenue

The Spanish-Speaking Church, pastored by Rev. Efrain Maya, has acquired a home in Long Beach for its growing ministry, and will hold inaugural services at the new site, 900 Lime Ave., Monday at 7 p.m. The church property was obtained from Lime Avenue Baptist Church, whose main sanctuary is on an opposite corner.

And parents, considering their children, should never think of them as something they own or as an expression of themselves, but as sovereign persons to be respected and accepted as persons.

Since today's generation of youth is generally considered more adult than their predecessors of similar age, perhaps the current youth-adult situation is actually more of a merger than a gap. Tensions have arisen from the "adultized" younger generation crowding the older one for more participation and additional freedom.

If older people wish to improve the youth situation, a solid place to begin is in their own families by encouraging young people to talk freely about their problems. Parents must listen, really listen, and forego pontifical advice or commands. Subjects such as sex, drugs, morals and religion, may cause adults to freeze up, but the communication gap can be reduced if such problems are recognized as serious concerns of young people and are openly dealt with on a one-to-one level.

Sex, of course, is the big blow-up of our time. It would appear that the phenomenon for which the word stands was discovered by the "now" generation. One wonders how all previous generations came into being. And is sex saleable? It is tragic that more fast bucks are being made on the so-called new morality than nearly any other commodity.

DRUGS, GETTING high and all that, apart from the "in" stereotyped motivation, could be the symptom of a generation that wants a higher awareness. But this avenue (drugs) for self-realization can only lead to a painful dead end. The church in many instances has failed to communicate with young people. It must relearn, as it once knew, how to communicate the thrill of the Christian faith that will cause kids to go for it and to know that there is a power that lifts a person into an excitement of life that really produces inner joy.

To try to bring the generations into communication, I have written a mini-book called "TUNE IN ON LIFE — You and the Generation Gap." If you are a young person, get a copy and leave it around for your parents to read. It will say something to them that you would like to say. And if you're a parent, slip one to your kids. It's in their language. This is a 32-page booklet with a psychedelic cover and we've had a million of them printed. If you would like a copy write to me as follows: Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, TUNE IN ON LIFE, Pawling, New York 12564. Please enclose a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

REV. ESPOSITO

St. Matthew's
Grad Ordained

Leslie Vincent Esposito of Long Beach will be ordained into the Roman Catholic priesthood today at St. Vibiana Cathedral, Los Angeles, by Archbishop Timothy Manning.

Rev. Esposito will celebrate his first Mass Sunday at St. Matthew Church, followed by a general reception and first priestly blessing from 3 to 5 p.m.

Son of Dr. and Mrs. Leslie V. Esposito of 2834 E. First St., the new priest was educated at St. Matthew, Queen of the Angels Seminary in San Fernando, St. Johns College and Major Seminary in Camarillo.

Father Esposito will be assisted in his first Mass by Msgr. James P. Lynch, archpriest; Revs. James P. Hansen, Bernard Gatlin and James P. O'Callaghan.

His family includes brothers, Lawrence, Vincent, Michael and James; sisters, Mrs. Thomas (Lucian) Maulhardt and Gina Esposito; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Esposito and Mrs. Pietro De Carlo, of San Pedro.

Theological Error
Wrecking Earth?

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

Man has felt free to ravage nature because he has arrogantly overestimated his own importance in relation to the subhuman world.

That is the view of a leading American theologian, Dr. John B. Cobb Jr.

of the Claremont School of Theology. Cobb believes the present ecological crisis is the practical result of a profound philosophical error that has infected Western thought since the time of Descartes.

In rightly proclaiming the absolute value of every human individual, he says,

Western thought has wrongly tended to look upon the rest of nature as "lacking all intrinsic value." Plants, animals, stones and streams have been regarded as valuable only insofar as they are useful to human beings.

Although Christian theology in recent centuries has gone along with this tendency to "absolutize the gulf" between human and nonhuman life, Cobb says, it has done so at the sacrifice of an ancient and basic biblical insight.

From the first chapter of Genesis onwards, the Bible declares again and again that God loves and values all of His creation, not merely the human portion of it. Even before the first man appeared on the scene, Genesis affirms, God looked upon the earth "and saw that it was good."

Other parts of the Bible assert that nature has intrinsic worth and dignity because "it shares with man the status of creaturehood, and participates with him in witnessing to God's greatness."

This insight needs to be recovered, Cobb contends, because man will never display the patience and restraint necessary to nurse the environment back to health until he views the subhuman world as "having some claim upon him, some intrinsic rights to exist and to prosper."

Appealing solely to man's long-term self interest is not likely to generate adequate motivation for the radical changes necessary to halt the poisoning of the earth, he says.

"Let us suppose that wilderness plays a crucial role in the ecological balance of the planet. If one is interested in wilderness only because of its very indirect importance to the sustaining and enrichment of human life, will he oppose with sufficient firmness the strong economic and humanistic arguments for converting it to more direct uses?

"Or will those whose only interest in the ocean is as a resource for human ends struggle with sufficient vigor against its use as a final repository for waste — a use which in the short run may assist in reducing the pollution of men's more immediate environment?"

Cobb presented his argument in a paper read at a recent scholarly seminar on "A Theology for Survival." He concluded with a plea that concern for others, which is central to the ethical teaching of Christianity and Judaism, be "extended to subhuman life as well."

Religion in our time, he said, must inculcate in man a disinterested love of nature for its own sake.

"This love of nature involves no disparagement of man, for he is the apex and summation of nature. It need not altogether reject technological manipulation of nature where that is needed for the sake of a richer life for man. But it would prevent ruthless indifference to the consequences of our actions for the living environment.

"Every human action must be measured in terms both of its consequences for man and of its consequences for other living things.

"That man is of vastly greater worth than any other creature does not reduce the value of the other to nothing."

'New Look' 49ers Showcased Tonight

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

If one believes the press releases, Jim Stangeland's Cal State Long Beach football team doesn't have a chance in its game with the Hank Hollingworth All-Stars tonight (8 o'clock) at Veterans Stadium.

Don't bet on it.

The Hollingworths include Gerry Shaw (USC), Dennis Shaw (San Diego State), Ben Agajanian (everywhere), Shelly Novack (CSLB), Rich Spindler (UCLA), Bob Silles (UCLA-LBCC), Steve Landis (CSLB), Pete Taculog (CSLB), Jim Fassel (USC-CSLB) and Tom Fitzpatrick (USC-CSLB).

The Stangelands include Leon Burns.

On paper it looks like a mismatch. Under similar circumstances a year ago, the Hollingworths fell, 41-0.

The Spring Game will showcase the second edition of Stangeland's football program at Cal State Long Beach.

The first edition was 8-3 last fall. Stangeland feels this team is superior "in all respects."

Burns, who led the nation in carries (350), yards gained rushing (1,650), touchdowns (27) and points (164) as a junior in an offense that included little besides his carrying the ball, should have lots of help next fall.

Offensive coach Chuck Boyle has spent the off-season doing innumerable hours of research on the finer aspects of the offenses of 10 of the nation's top football teams.

He has combined the best points of each into an attack the 49er coaching staff feels will be virtually unstoppable—if things work as planned.

Built around Burns, the offense also will make great use of the talents of quarterbacks Rod Graves and Randy Drake and wide receivers Ken Matthews, Terry Conley and Chuck Dividian, all newcomers to the Cal State program.

Tickets for tonight's contest, which will be available at the gate for $1, also include a chance to receive $2,000 or a new car.

A season ticket booth (cost is $16) also will be open for fans who wish to select seats for CSLB's five-game home schedule next fall.

45,716 See Dodgers Fall 1-0

Vance Loses 3-Hitter

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

Pat Jarvis marched into the Atlanta clubhouse after blanking the Dodgers, 1-0, on five hits Friday night before 45,716 at Dodger Stadium and immediately scolded his teammates.

"You guys really know how to hit," he chided. "That was some performance. Three lousy hits."

That's all the Braves managed off young Sandy Vance and Joe Moeller but they were enough as the Braves handed the Dodgers their first shutout loss since April 11 and moved to within a halfgame of the O'Malleys, who reside in second place in the National League West.

The two hits the Braves drew off Vance came in the second inning when they scored their only run.

Felix Millan got the first one, a single. He should have been erased but Tom Haller threw to first base trying to trap Millan, who was racing toward second with a stolen base. An error and then Hank Aaron's single scored Millan and that was all Jarvis needed. It was Aaron's 41st RBI. He leads the league.

"Stuff-wise and control-wise, this was Vance's best game," commented manager Walter Alston afterward. "It was better even than some of his wins. He pitched out of a couple of jams and pitched well the whole game."

The Dodgers missed many opportunities against Jarvis, who ended a four-game losing spell against the O'Malleys. Even though the Dodgers had him on the ropes, Jarvis called his performance a "masterpiece."

"The way I pitch against the Dodgers you bet it was a masterpiece," he said, smiling.

"I don't know when I've had better stuff. All I throw is a fast ball and a slip pitch and, boy, they were really working," said the onetime ace of the Braves' staff who slipped to a 13-11 season in 1969. "My last shutout? The day we landed guys on the moon, that's when. I don't remember the date but it was when we hit the moon."

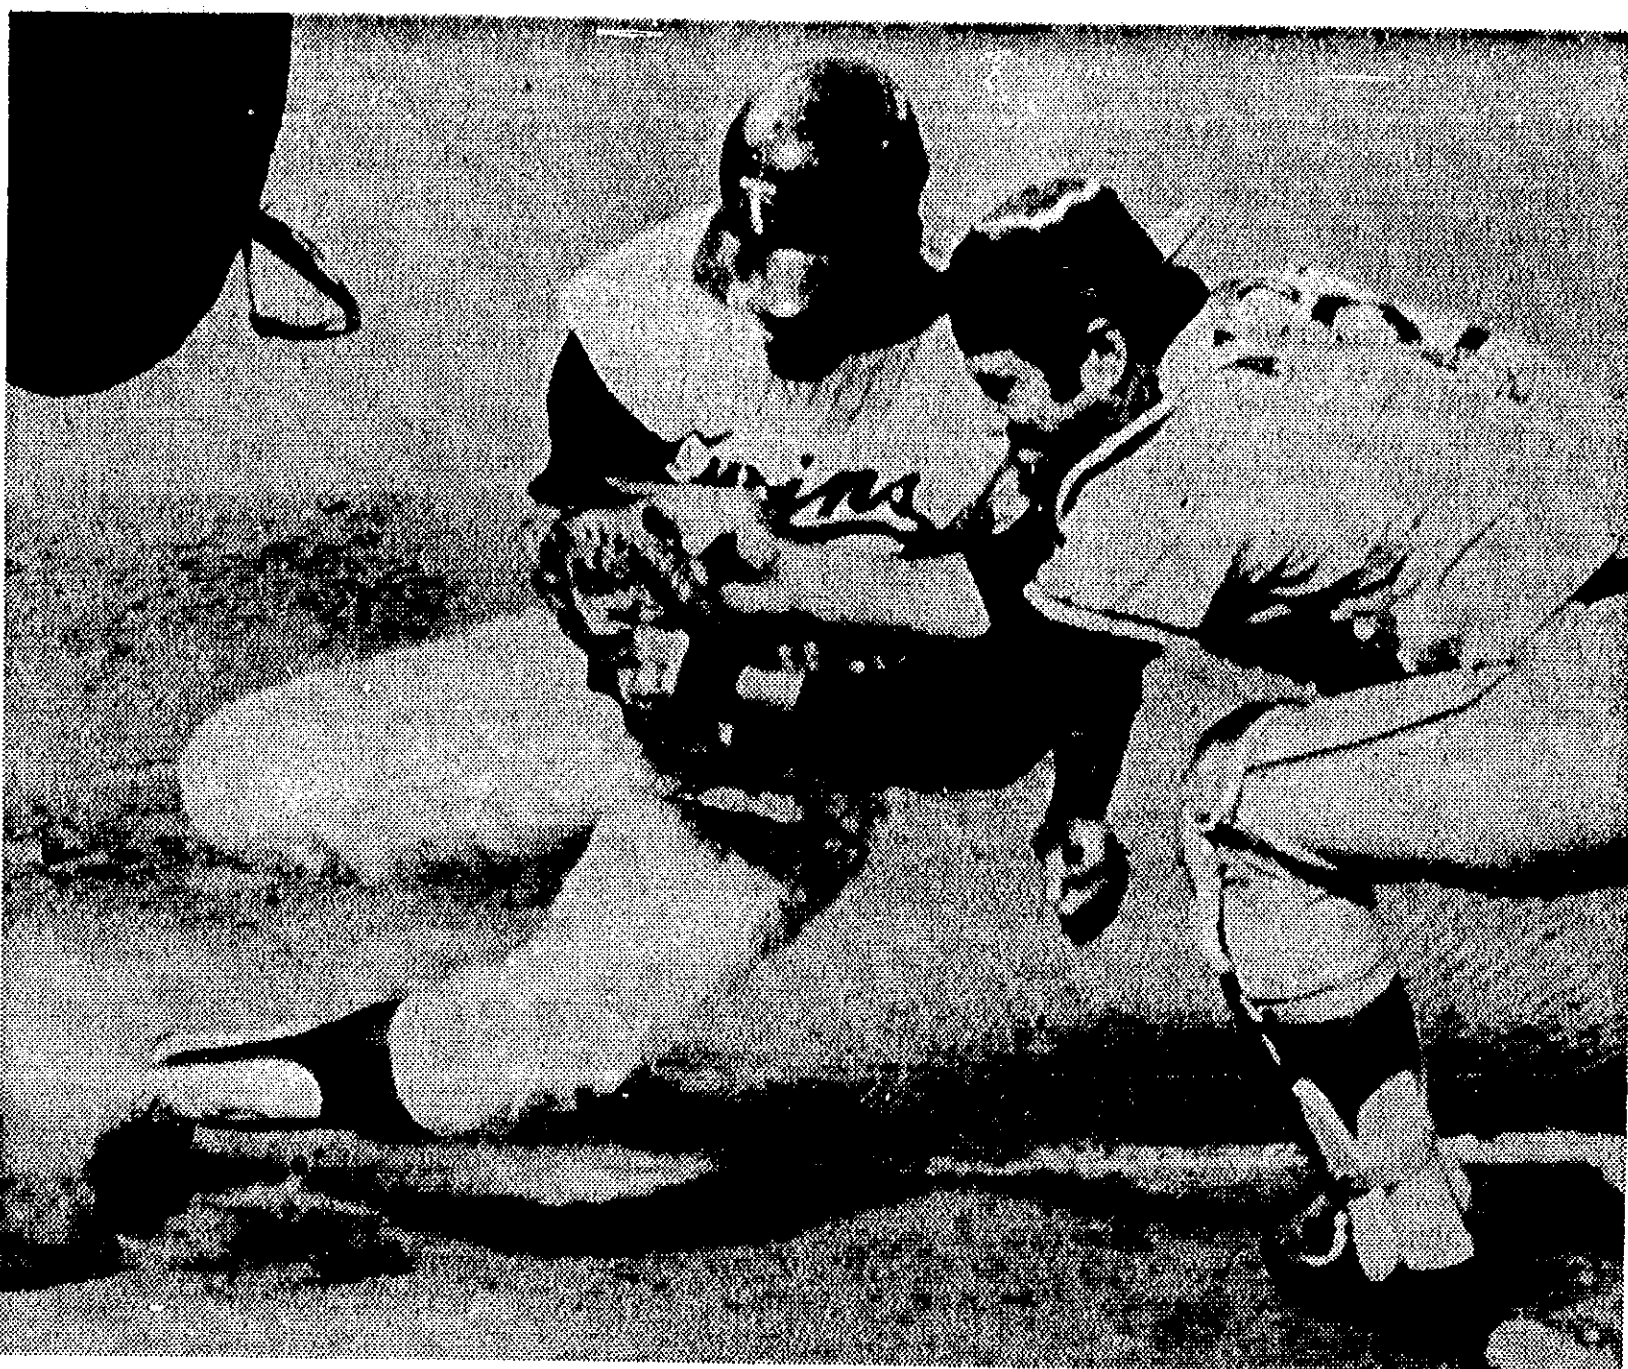

The play that got the Braves their only run was a puzzler.

After Millan singled with one out, Haller fired to first trying to pick him off. But Millan was on his way to second. No one told first baseman Wes Parker, though, and as Wes reached down to tag Millan at first, he was sliding into second.

Mike Lum hit a grounder that Maury Wills booted for the first of three Dodger errors and that advanced Millan to third. Hammerin' Hank then lined a single to center and that scored Millan.

"We had the guy picked off but we went to the wrong base," said Alston, "and that's all I can say."

TWINS DIDN'T HAIL CESAR THIS TIME

Are Angels for Real? Twins Begin to Wonder After Loss

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

TWIN CITIES — It was a sweet victory but Lefty Phillips, the painfully honest manager, hedged slightly when quizzed as to whether it was the sweetest of all.

"I'd have to say this was perhaps the sweetest, but I still think that victory in Oakland last season was the most important for me personally. It gave me a job this season."

The job Lefty is doing never ceases to be a source of amazement around the American League.

Clyde Wright did not figure to outduel Jim Perry and the Angels did not figure to outmuscle the Minnesota Twins Friday night, but that is exactly what happened in front of 16,923 who showed up at Met Stadium to see if the Angels were for real.

They saw Wright post his sixth victory of the season and they saw Ken McMullen and Jim Spencer hit home runs as the Angels nipped the Twins, 3-2, severing a seven-game Minnesota winning streak and moving to within one-half game of the leaders in the American League West.

"I would like to be in a position for a sweep on Sunday," Phillips had commented before play began Friday night. He will be in such an envious spot if Andy Messersmith can match Wright's sixth success this afternoon when he faces Jim Kaat.

"Tonight's game was important for two reasons," the manager analyzed. "First, it is always a key to win the first game of any series and especially so when you have a team as young as ours. Secondly, it was important because this is the team we have to beat."

Perry, aiming for his seventh triumph, allowed only two hits into the seventh inning but they were enough to place him on the wrong end of a 2-1 score.

McMullen, who took extra batting practice Thursday because "I feel I'm not contributing enough and I've always done poorly against Minnesota," drilled his fourth homer in the second.

When the Twins strung together three successive singles off Wright to even the match in the sixth, Spencer promptly put the Angels in front again when he launched his third home run over the fence in right field for the second hit off Perry.

Spencer's shot seemed to perk up his mates. Bill

Voss followed with a single to right and Joe Azcue did the same. The crusher came when Wright singled to center, scoring Voss and chasing Perry.

Wright, making his first start since Sunday when he was drilled in the left leg by a batted ball, confessed that the injury was bothersome Friday, especially on his change-ups. But he preferred to talk about his game-winning hit.

"When the count got to two and two I knew Perry was going to come in with a breaking pitch, and danged if he didn't," Wright drawled in his native Tennessean.

That was the pivotal run because Rich Renick hit his second home run of the year off Paul Doyle in the ninth inning to cause no

Rams, Allen Alive And at Odds in L.B.

BY AL LARSON
Staff Writer

After a winter of conspicuous inactivity and virtual hibernation as far as news was concerned, it now can be reported that George Allen and the Rams are alive but at odds in Long Beach.

Spring in all its splendor hit the news front Friday when Jack Teele, assistant to Rams president Dan Reeves, delivered a terse statement in answer to Allen's earlier remarks that "I figure this is my last year with the club. If they wanted me back, I would have heard from them by now."

Teele said, "In January of 1969 when George was rehired as head coach, Dan and George agreed that both of them would honor the five-year contract to its expiration at the close of the 1970 season.

"Following the 1970 season, Dan indicated, he would review the matter again. Nothing has changed since that time," Teele concluded.

Reeves currently is in a New York hospital, where he has been a patient for several weeks.

Allen, who was fired in 1968 after differences with Reeves, then reinstated eight days later under his old contract, said he had not had any informal discussions with Ram officials about a 1971 contract.

"As far as the 1970 season is concerned, I'm going at it as if I had a 10-year contract," Allen said. "I'm giving it everything I've got. But next January, I figure I'll be looking for a job. I'll take the best thing I can get."

Allen leaves today for the NFC coaches meeting in New York.

LANCERS ADVANCE, BRUINS DON'T

Tom Lederer hurled a three-hitter and his teammates backed him with 12 hits as Lakewood pounded out a 7-1 CIF playoff win over Buena Park Friday at Amerigo Park.

The Lancers meet North Torrance, a 5-1 victor over Anaheim, Tuesday.

Lederer picked up his eighth win of the season without a loss while pitching his first complete game. He set the tempo with his fast balls.

almost as dangerous, going three-for-three and scoring two runs. He raised his batting average to .454.

Lakewood, held to one run by Plus X Tuesday, had little trouble with Buena Park's Benito Neal and Bruce Flemming, ripping them for two triples and two doubles.

The Lancers scored three times in the third for all the runs they needed.

Lederer led off with a single and Ron Marquez tripped him home. The swift centerfielder scored on the relay when outfielder Randy Arner overthrew the catcher. Clint Myers doubled, stole third and went home on a single by Craig Cleveland to end the scoring.

Lakewood added another run in the sixth when Allen Grooms bobbled Gary Ventura High rallied for three runs — two unearned — in the top of the seventh inning to defeat Wilson 4-3 Friday in the second round of the CIF playoffs at Blair Field.

Scott Marchael, in relief of Bill Buskirk, absorbed the loss. He allowed two hits in one and two-third innings.

The junior, making his first appearance in two weeks, was the victim of a home run, an error and a wild pitch that led to his first loss of the year.

Ventura held to four hits in six innings and trailing 3-1, opened the seventh with a leadoff home run by Chris Divers. Then came the two costly misques that led to the Bruins' defeat.

Following Divers' homer, Dan Flores walked and was singled to second by Al Rodriguez. Sophomore Don Adams replaced Rodriguez on first base. With Gary Elshere at bat Flores strayed from second base and Bruin catcher Mark Sweet tried to pick him off. His throw traveled to short-center and both runners advanced.

Marchael wild pitched home Flores. Elshere, with a perfect squeeze bunt, scored Adams with the winning run.

Nagel Rehired by Iowa

Board Rescinds Earlier Firing

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI)

— The University of Iowa board in control of athletics voted Friday night to rescind its earlier actions and reinstate head football coach Ray Nagel.

Nagel had been fired effective June 30 by the board Tuesday. He now will be allowed to continue as head coach until the expiration of his present contract on Dec. 31, 1970. No decision was made on extending that contract.

Board president Samuel Fahr said the decision to retain Nagel was made after meeting with several representatives from the 1970 Iowa football team. Fahr said the players expressed their desire to finish the coming season on Nagel's leadership.

Another apparent reason for the board action was a decision by Iowa attorney general Richard Turner, released Friday night, not to prosecute assistant football coaches for "irregularities" in their expense accounts.

The padded expense account scandal, believed to involve bar expenses incurred while entertaining prospective recruits, was made public last week.

Fahr said although Nagel was retained, he had been "reprimanded for his past conduct and failure to cooperate with the university president and the board."

Fahr said the head coach "agreed to conduct the program in full compliance with board and university policies and regulations." Nagel reportedly agreed to work to resolve the differences which have split the Iowa athletic department for more than one year.

'Luckless Lloyd' Towed Off Track

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Luckless Lloyd Ruby, one of the highest ranking drivers still unqualified for the 54th 500-mile auto race May 30, had to be towed in for the sixth time this year Friday at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The Texan, five times among the top 10 in the rich Memorial Day race, was stalled in his practice run by a broken ring and pinion gear. His crew hopes to have the car ready to go again today in the next-to-last qualifying session.

Mario Andretti, last year's winner, practiced at more than 167 miles per hour Friday while most of the unqualified drivers were struggling to reach 165. Andretti qualified last weekend.

Six spots are left in the 33-car starting field.

"We think it will take 166 to stay in contention on Memorial Day," said Andy Granatelli, owner of Andretti's German-built McNamara-Ford.

If the STP Corp. president has the field evaluated right, the race on May 30 will be far and away the fastest since the American auto classic began in 1911.

The race record for the full distance is Andretti's 156.867 mph last year.

The record at the 200-mile mark is 158.901 last year by Ruby. The record at 250 miles is 159,039 two years ago by Bobby Unser, on his way to victory.

Bobby and Mario already are qualified to start in the third of the three-car rows in the 33-car lineup.

Bobby's brother Al, who never has won the race,

Merritt Reels Off 9th Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Left-hander Jim Merritt, backed by home runs off the bats of Tony Perez and Bernie Carbo, became the major league's first nine-game winner Friday night as the Cincinnati Reds downed the Houston Astros, 5-2.

Merritt (8-2) survived 10 Houston hits in a duel with Astros ace Larry Dierker (8-3) for his third consecutive win and the eighth in his last nine decisions.

The loss was Houston's fourth in a row.

Perez snapped out of an 0-for-11 slump with his 14th homer, touching off a three-run fourth that overhauled the 1-0 edge Houston built on John Edwards' second-inning RBI single.

Hickman, Colborn Combine to Lift Cubbies Past Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Hickman drove in three runs with a homer and a double and Jim Colborn worked 4 1/3 innings of scoreless relief as the Chicago Cubs defeated the New York Mets 6-4 Friday night.

Hickman hammered a two-run homer off New York starter Jerry Koosman in the first inning and then added another run with his fifth inning double.

Ken Holtzman, staked to an early four-run lead, was jolted for seven hits including a homer by Donn Clendenon and was lifted with two out in the fifth.

Colborn came on to retire pinch hitter Ken Boswell, leaving two Mets stranded in the fifth and allowed only two base runs Johnny Bench and Lee May followed with doubles for the second run and rookie Dave Concepcion's single brought in the third.

Pete Rose tripled and scored on May's sacrifice fly in the fifth. One inning later, Carbo unloaded a blast to the concrete facing on the yellow level in right.

He was the first left-handed batter to hit a ball fair above the purple in right since the Astrodome opened.

Houston's other run off Merritt came in the fourth on a double by Denis Menke, Doug Rader's single and Menke's steal of home as Rader successfully avoided a tag in a rundown.

cluding Cleon Jones' triple.

A triple by Glenn Beckert and doubles by Billy Williams and Hickman restored the three-run lead in the fifth but Clendenon's homer followed by a single and a walk with two out led to Holtzman's exit.

Giants Batter Padres

Use Grand Slam by Henderson

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ken Henderson's second grand slam homer of the season paced the San Francisco Giants to a 9-4 victory over the San Diego Padres Friday night.

The Giants were clinging to a 5-4 lead with two outs in the eighth, when two walks and a hit batsman filled the bases against San Diego reliever Tom Dukes.

Henderson then crashed his sixth homer of the year over the right field screen.

The grand slam assured right-hander Rich Robertson's fourth victory against three setbacks. Robertson scattered six hits as the Giants ended a three-game losing string.

BOOG POWELL
Oriole 'Ignitor'

Boog's Blast Buries Bosox

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Boog Powell led off the sixth inning with his 12th homer of the season to snap a 4-4 tie Friday night and pace the Baltimore Orioles to a 7-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

After Oriole starter Jim Hardin was spotted a 4-0 lead in the first inning, Boston picked up single runs in the second, fourth, fifth and sixth innings. A walk to Merv Rettenmund, Mark Belanger's triple and Frank Robinson's single sent the Orioles off to a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Powell doubled and Paul Blair's fielder's choice scored Robinson. The fourth run of the inning scoring when right-fielder Tony Conigliaro dropped Brooks Robinson's fly.

Baltimore added two insurance runs in the eighth inning on a single by Blair, a run-scoring double by Brooks Robinson and a run-scoring single by Dave Johnson.

Chaffin Captures 2-Mile in Best-Ever 9:02.6

Only Six Rabbits Gain CIF Finals

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

Poly High senior Jim Chaffin salvaged what had been a series of disappointing performances by Long Beach high school athletes at Friday night's CIF track semi-finals at Cerritos College by upsetting El Modena's Dave White in the nation's second fastest two-mile this season.

Chaffin met every challenge White could muster to win in a rousing 9:02.6 — best ever by a L.B. prepster and just off Ruben Chappins' meet record 9:00.8 established last year.

A stride-for-stride kick over the final 220 yards gave the crowd of 6,188 its most enjoyable moments during four and one-half hours of competition.

White, who had taken a two-stride lead on the fifth lap, still had that margin when the gun sounded for the final 440 yards.

Chaffin caught White going into the first curve and never did let him lead again enroute to a 58.7 final lap clocking.

White, caught at 59.1 for that distance, finished in 9:02.8, setting the stage for a great finals that will also include West Torrance's Ron Johnson, who took the first heat in 9:11.6.

Lakewood junior Larry Greer was third in the first heat at 9:13.2.

Until Chaffin's effort, many of the Moore League's finest athletes had wilted in the pressure cooker atmosphere.

Poly, which had thoughts of challenging Morningside and Santa Ana, for the title next week, suffered a KO in the first event when league champion Andrew Gaither pulled up lame in the 120 high hurdles.

The Jackrabbits had a Southland-leading 17 qualifying positions when the evening began and escaped with only six men in the finals.

Ron Alice's team didn't have a lock on the adversity.

Bob Barmeyer, Moore 100 and 220 champion two years in succession, will have to be content anchoring Wilson's 440 relay team in the finals this year — if he's healthy.

Hawks Divide

With Dolphins

The Long Beach Nite-hawks and Sub Flot No. 1 Dolphins divided a Western Softball Congress twin bill Friday night at Park Ave. Field. The visitors won the first game 7-3 while the Hawks captured the nightcap, 3-1.

Sherm McInnis, who suffered the loss in the opener, had to come back in the second game to relieve Art Bunge who was forced to retire with a sore arm. McInnis gained the victory.

Still playing .500 ball (4-4), the Hawks travel to San Bernardino's Guadalupe Park tonight for an 8:15 engagement with the Flame (1-4).

Running in lane eight, Barmeyer pulled up with a twinge in his right leg 35 yards into the 100 and limped off as Santa Ana speedster Jackie White barreled home in a wind-aided 9.5.

White who also ran 21.6 in the 220, was mainly responsible for the Saints leading the way with eight qualifying positions and a chance to catch Morningside.

Poly came through in the mile relay as Miguel Robinson, Sam Hill, Pierre Robinson and Fred Batiste clocked 3:18.9 in finishing second behind Morningside's 3:18.0 — the state's 1-2 times this season.

WESTERN, ALAMITOS WIN Anaheim Overcome by North Torrance

Brad Rooker hurled a two-hitter to lead North Torrance past Sunset League co-champion Anaheim 5-1 Friday in a second round feature of the CIF 4-A playoffs.

Rooker's strong pitching was backed by Gary Prior, who drove in two runs on two hits. Randy Carron's triple drove in another run.

The Bay League champions meet Lakewood Tuesday.

Western, the other Sunset co-champs, fared better with a 4-3 win over Pasadena to three hits.

Chaffey scored three unearned runs and Bill Davidson fired a three-hitter to whip Lynwood 6-2. Bob Mathew doubled and drove in two runs to lead Chaffey hitters.

Bishop Amat scored three runs in the top of the 11th inning to tag an 8-5 loss on Dominguez.

Manny Estrada went three-for-three, doubling, tripling and homering,

Cerritos Wins 6-1, Nears State Title

By ERNIE TORRES

Cerritos College trimmed College of Sequoias, 6-1, Friday afternoon in the opening game of the state junior college baseball finals.

Consistent offense was the difference for Cerritos, which was led by Jim Musick's two hits (triple, 2 RBI) and Mike Sunseri's double and single.

How does Cerritos coach Wally Kincaid rate Sequoias, NorCal champion, with some of Southern California's better teams?

"They're a good team, the best in Northern California," said Kincaid, who doesn't sound convinced. "But we just played better."

The Falcons now sport a 39-1 record compared to Sequoias' 28-14-1 and have the enviable task of being able to wrap up the championship today on their home diamond at noon.

'Football Obsolete,' Card Player Retires for Tom

OAKLAND — "When the revolution comes, football will be obsolete," says Dave Meggys, explaining why he has retired after seven seasons as a linebacker with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"It's not like I'm dropping out. I want to work to change the institution that is football. It's where I can work best," said the bearded Meggys, 28.

"It's a crime what is done to the individual, from the little leagues to the pros. They're molded, warped, processed — whatever words you want to use."

Meggys, who played college football at Syracuse, moved into a modest home recently. He said he is writing a book entitled "Out of Their League: Why I Quit Pro Football."

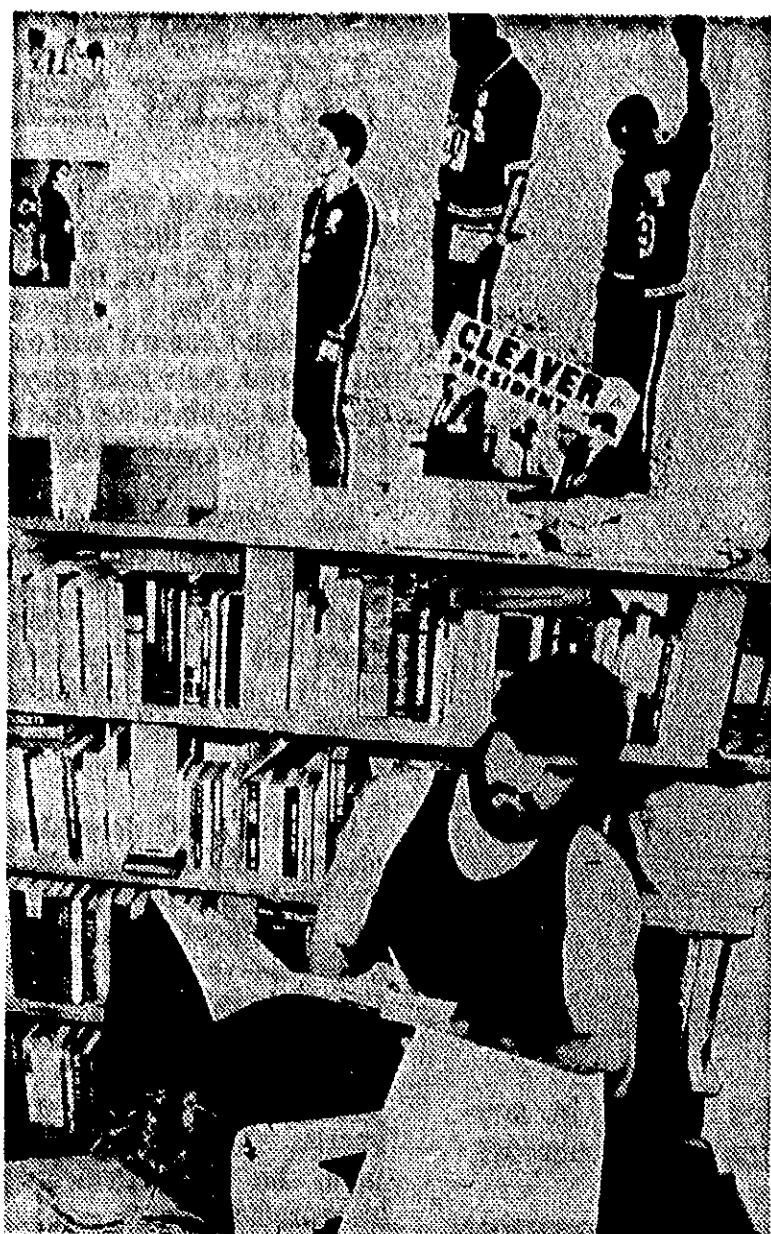

Meggys said he talked to Cardinal coach Charley Winner by telephone Wednesday night for more than an hour but did not reveal his decision to leave football.

"It was strange, talking to him without that authority thing of coach and player," Meggys said.

"I think he was surprised to hear a player talk to him like that."

"We hadn't spoken more than a minute together before that. It was always like, you know, grunt, how're you feeling, how's the shoulder, how's the weight," The whole coaches' mentality."

Meggys' statements were similar to those of another pro linebacker who quit recently, Chip Oliver of the Oakland Raiders.

Oliver, who has joined a communal living group in nearby Larkspur, said he was tired of being regarded as one of the "slabs of beef" who hit each other in pro football.

Meggys feel "sports can be a fundamental and beautiful form of self-expression. But sports like football will be obsolete. It is antithetical to the way human beings should act toward each other."

Meggys said he would try to persuade other players to leave pro football.

Weiskopf Leads Atlanta Classic

ATLANTA — Tall Tom Weiskopf, snapping out of a mild but protracted slump, continued to dominate the Atlanta Country Club Course and took sole control of the second round lead in the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic Friday with a four-under-par 68.

Weiskopf, a boyishly-handsome lanky lad from Cleveland, had a 36-hole total of 133, a record 11-under-par on the tough 7,053-yard, par-72 layout and one stroke in front of long-shot Chuck Courtney.

"I'm delighted for Weiskopf," defending champion Bert Yancey (137) said. "He's got more ability than any nine guys out here and just hasn't been able to concentrate or get it going for so long."

Then, with a grin, he added: "He won't last. You can put it in the paper. Anyone who is 11 under has got to be over his head."

Weiskopf, who won two events and over $150,000 in 1968, went into what amounted to a slump for him last year when he failed to win.

At least one title contender will be eliminated in the first round of the Long Beach city golf championship today as past champions John Richardson and Steve Cook collide in the headliner of 32 matches at El Dorado. The field of 64 will be cut in half tonight, and when the sun goes down Sunday there will be only eight survivors. Sunday's bill of fare calls for a double round of matches.

Richardson, at 49 still one of the state's finest amateurs, was the only player to shoot under-par twice in qualifying (70-71) and he did it with four three-putt greens.

49ers Open Playoff Play

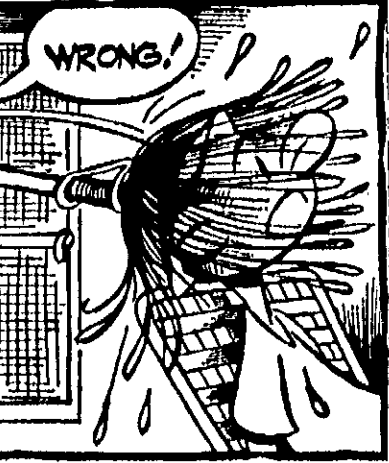

SAN JOSE—John Kelsler, dean of the Cal State Long Beach pitching staff as a sophomore, puts a personal seven-game win streak on the line today when the 49ers open District 8 NCAA playoff competition against host University of Santa Clara.

Kelsler, 0-3 early in the season, won his last seven decisions, including five as the 49ers swept to the Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. title with an 11-4 record.

Today's game, in Santa Clara's Buck Shaw Stadium, begins at 2 p.m. The best-of-three series continues Sunday at 1 p.m., also at Buck Shaw.

The winner of this series will meet the winner of the Pacific-8 Tournament being played at USC's Bovard Field this weekend, for the right to represent District 8 in the college World Series in Omaha, Neb.

Modesto Attracts World Class Field

MODESTO — For 364 days each year this placid community of 40,000 souls serves as a waystop for weary wanderers traveling Highway 99. Even the dust stirs slowly.

But come the third weekend in May, Modesto doubles in population and quadruples in activity.

Track and field followers from San Diego to Seattle storm into town to witness the annual California Relays and State Junior College championships.

Meet promoters have gathered together seven world record holders and four American standard bearers for tonight's 29th annual edition.

Foremost is sprinter John Carlos, who ranked No. 1 in the world a year ago after rocketing 100 yards in 9.1 seconds. He'll face a select field at 100 meters and 220 yards.

Olympian Lee Evans will run the 440 and 440 hurdles less than an hour apart, and may be rematched against Curtis Mills of Texas A&M in the former. Mills upset Evans in a world record 44.7 to win the NCAA crown last season.

The program is dotted with such global personalities as Willie Davenport, Bob Seagren, John Pannel, Randy Matson, Jay Silvester, Gerry Lindgren, Ralph Mann and Mark Murro.

For sheer excitement the relays may steal the show.

Although some of the glitter was lost when Texas A&M and UCLA were forced to scratch from the 880 baton chase with injuries, the Aggies (3:08.3) and Bruins (3:07.1) are expected to collide in the mile, where Rice (3:06.6), Abilene Christian (3:07.1) and Villanova (3:07.9) may cause some surprises.

Marty Liquori, the nation's premier miler, is expected to anchor Villanova in the two and four-mile exchanges and also may take a crack at the open mile, where he holds a lifetime best 3:57.6.

Kansas State and Wisconsin will challenge Villanova in the two-mile.

Back in Rodeo Pack

Four-time national all-around champion Larry Mahan took a back seat to other cowboys Friday night as the Forum Championship Rodeo drew an opening night crowd of 9,061.

Mahan finished third behind Bob Berger, Halstead, Kans., and Bo Ashorn, Texas, in bull riding while rodeo's leading money winner was back in the pack in the bareback bronc event. Ace Berry, Modesto, made the best score followed by Allen Thorp, Canada. The five-performance indoor rodeo continues today at 2 and 8 p.m. at the Forum.

"The system has a depressing effect on wage levels because there's no opportunity to negotiate with the user of his services," Nathan said.

Nathan then disputed the argument that the abolition of the clause would create competitive imbalance. Baseball's executives have contended that the abolition of the clause might ruin organized baseball.

"There is no tendency for top talent to aggregate to one employer," said Nathan. "In a free society, there are not many groups that stay on top of the heap very long and, under our system, there is a re-

The appealing match goes off at 10:42 a.m. in a foursome that includes young Dave Joyner and southpaw Lonell Davis of Griffith Park.

The winner of the Cook-Richardson match probably will be rated the man to beat for the title, but there are others capable of winning it. Rarely have there been so many title contenders.

Masters' champions Mike Fedderly and Dick Mortensen, former UCLA all-America Larry Benson and past city titlist Monte Bedford (1968) must be given consideration.

The out-of-town contingent is impressive, too. Gary Alari of Montebello won the qualifying medal, Alton Duhan of Griffith Park had the best round, a 67, and Bellflower lefty Larry Watts has done well in many state events.

Collegians Fred Good of San Diego State and Steve Rhorer of UC Santa Barbara, who were teammates at Wilson High, also appear capable of going all the way.

Either Bedford or Good won't make it past round one as they are paired in an opening match. Another outstanding opener pits Ed McBratney against Dave Elder. McBratney was a finalist in 1967, Elder in 1968.

If Good wins, he would have to battle Dick Mortensen Sunday morning, providing Mortensen gets by 53-year-old Willard McCay, who won this tourney in 1947.

Brothers Frank, 20, and Jeff Newell, 17, need only to win their first match to meet in the second round. Frank is favored against Jim Jenkins while Jeff is a slight underdog against Gary Wishon.

Final performance today 8:30 p.m., campus Little Theater.

He was so right. For with a wild, brassy abandon, sometimes verging on the obscene, author Peter Weiss and a large, reasonably talented cast challenge many of the West's most-sacred cows.

Few of the ideas, or the attacks on them, are new — except, perhaps, to a younger audience. Poverty, the grasping middle-class, social inequities, religion's role in all these, have long been explored by U. S. and European critics.

The real impact is not in what is said, I suspect, but rather in how it's presented. There is undeniable impact on eye and ear, but I for one, found the work less than intellectually challenging.

In form, this is a play-within-a-play, and its full title explains much of the apparent madness: "The Persecution and Assassination of Jean-Paul Marat as Performed by the Inmates of the Asylum of Charenton Under the Direction of the Marquis de Sade." As the younger said, "Wow!"

The year is 1808, and the inmates are staging or reliving the events 15 years earlier of the French Reign of Terror. Heads roll from the guillotine, through very effective stagecraft, and old revolutionary Marat is about to be symbolically assassinated.

DeSADE, whose name now is attached to a psychological aberration, is alive and well, a patient in the asylum. Marat, on the other hand, is a patient with complete delusion that he is, indeed, the dead leader.

Michael Owens as the Marat character, demonstrates strength and skill as he unwaveringly "continues" the fight for "the rights of man." And William Earl, doing the infamous marquis, is most believable as a revolutionary-turned-conservative by the winds of change. Lisa Brailoff, playing the patient portraying murdereress Charlotte Corday, projects a most chilling madness.

As almost always in a CSCLB mounting, set, stagecraft and costumes are, in a word, lush. Although I'm not at all enamored with the vehicle itself, the production earns a 3-star rating.

FAMILY-TYPE MOVIES ARE OUT FOR 'R'

GARLAND, Tex. (AP) — A theater which has shown only family type movies for the past three years is yielding to pressure and will now show only adult films.

"I'm not going to be a baby sitter for these kids any longer," said Bill Meyer, manager of the theatre in this Dallas suburb. Last week, Meyer, who has three children of his own, decided to stop showing "G," general audience, films and show only "R," restricted, films.

He said the policy was implemented because of an increase in rowdiness.

As a guide to moviegoers this newspaper lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing the Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the Film Board of National Organizations.

ANNE OF THE THOUSAND DAYS — Ten Oscar nominations were garnered for this richly decorative drama of the ill-starred marriage between Henry VIII (Richard Burton) and Anne Boleyn (Genevieve Bujold). (GP)

A MAN CALLED HORSE — Richard Harris portrays an English lord brutally enslaved by the Sioux. Dame Judith Anderson also is featured. (GP)

HALLS OF ANGER — A drama of black and white confrontation in a large city high school, and a black teacher's individualistic approach to education. (GP)

THE LIBERATION OF L. B. JONES — The adulterous affair between a young black wife and a white lawman sets off racial emotions in a small Tennessee town. (R)

NAKED UNDER LEATHER — A bored young French wife, given a motorcycle by her husband, dresses in leather and speeds to her lover. Previously titled "The Girl On A Motorcycle." (R)

GONE WITH THE WIND — Another re-release of this Civil War era drama. Stars Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh and Olivia DeHavilland. Winner of 10 Oscars.

BUTCH CASSIDY AND THE SUNDANCE KID — Early 1900s western outlaws Paul Newman and Robert Redford take their banditry to Bolivia. An often witty script. (GP)

TRUE GRIT — John Wayne plays a one-eyed,

MOVIE GUIDE

whiskey-guzzling western marshal who helps a 14-year-old girl track down her father's murderer. (G)

THE REIVERS — Steve McQueen plays a Southern scoundrel who borrows a car and with a friend and a young boy goes off on a toot in turn-of-the-century Memphis. (GP)

JENNY — Television star Marlo Thomas is improbably cast as an unwed mother. Miss Thomas' film debut. (GP)

2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY — Oscar-winning special effects highlights this Stanley Kubrick fiction

ANNE OF THE THOUSAND DAYS — Ten Oscar nominations were garnered for this richly decorative drama of the ill-starred marriage between Henry VIII (Richard Burton) and Anne Boleyn (Genevieve Bujold). (GP)

HALLS OF ANGER — A drama of black and white confrontation in a large city high school, and a black teacher's individualistic approach to education. (GP)

THE LIBERATION OF L. B. JONES — The adulterous affair between a young black wife and a white lawman sets off racial emotions in a small Tennessee town. (R)

NAKED UNDER LEATHER — A bored young French wife, given a motorcycle by her husband, dresses in leather and speeds to her lover. Previously titled "The Girl On A Motorcycle." (R)

GONE WITH THE WIND — Another re-release of this Civil War era drama. Stars Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh and Olivia DeHavilland. Winner of 10 Oscars.

BUTCH CASSIDY AND THE SUNDANCE KID — Early 1900s western outlaws Paul Newman and Robert Redford take their banditry to Bolivia. An often witty script. (GP)

TRUE GRIT — John Wayne plays a one-eyed,

YOU SAW IT ON T.V.! . . . NOW READ ALL ABOUT IT!

Ralph Williams needs help! He is desperately overstocked! He bought the entire liquidated inventory of a bay area Chrysler-Plymouth dealer. He trucked it to Downey, our seven acres are swamped with over 100 truck loads of new & used cars—two complete inventories—wild savings passed on to local buyers. MORE CARS ON THE WAY FROM THE FACTORY AND NO ROOM TO PARK THEM.
